Another Section Strikes at England's Interference With the American Mails.WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Drastic amendments to the revenue bill, striking at the allied blacklist and British interference with American mails, were adopted today by the Senate and caused consternation among the diplomatic representatives of the allies.In allied quarters it was declared that the enactment of the amendments into law would constitute nothing less than a nonintercourse act, preliminary to a commercial warfare with possibilities of far-reaching consequences.Until the retaliatory amendments become law with the President's signature, the allies technically have nothing to protest about, but there are assurances that representations will be made if the amendments stay in the bill.Inasmuch as the Government had decided on a course of legislation to meet the restraints on commerce which diplomatic correspondence has been unable to remove, it is generally expected that amendments will be put through. The administration leaders who have intimate connections with the Government's foreign policy made no attempt to stay their adoption.An amendment to the revenue bill, authorizing the President during a war
in which the United States is not engaged to withhold clearance from all vessels which discriminate against American shippers; to withhold privileges from ships of such nations as withhold privileges accorded to other nations from American ships; and to the army and navy if necessary to prevent departure of offending vessels from United States ports, was adopted today by the Senate.An amendment of Senator Phelan of California, was adopted authorizing the President by proclamation to deny the use of the mails, express, telegraph, wireless or cable facilities to citizens of nations which do not accord to Americans all facilities of commerce, "including the unhampered traffic in the mails." This amendment, it was announced, was aimed particularly at British interference with American mails.An amendment to the tariff commission section by Senator Gallinger was adopted, broadening the commission's powers so that it shall observe the effect of tariff laws on industry and labor and also observe the effect of "economic alliances." An amendment by Senator Sterling directing the commission to investigate particularly the cost of production here and abroad, was rejected.Passage of the revenue bill tonight will virtually clear the way for adjournment of Congress probably not later than Thursday, as it is the last of the big measures on the administration program.The Senate yesterday sustained by 43 to 7 the administration plan to impose increased tariff duties on dyestuffs at the end of the war.Opposition to the Webb bill to permit American firms to operate collective selling agencies abroad which has developed in the Senate threatens to delay adjustment of Congress if the bill is passed. Opposition is promised from both sides of the chamber by those who fear it might prevent the sale of American goods in foreign lands except through a foreign selling monopoly.
President Wilson has urged that the bill be passed.

PROFESSOR DIES IN AIR FIGHT

structor in United States.
BERLIN, via London, Sept. 5.—Prof.
Herbert, several years ago an exchange professor in the United States, was killed recently in an aerial action over the western front.The following day the Belgian victor dropped a bouquet of roses for the funeral with the inscription: "A Belgian aviator's homage to a foe defeated in aerial battle."

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 5.—Great Britain has purchased the entire supply of synthetic nitrate in Norway, thereby preventing exportation of this requisite in the manufacture of ammunition to Germany, according to J. M. Humphreys, manager of a large British nitrate corporation, who is in San Francisco enroute to Chile.

U. S. WAY TO HANDLE STRIKES

New York, Sept. 5.—My action in

SAYS HEALTH OFFICIALReport to Mayor Declares Keeping of Chickens in Thickly Settled Districts Should Not Be Permitted.A "shoo" at the city rooster is sounded in the annual report of Assistant Health Commissioner Jordan, submitted today to Mayor Kiel. Other chickens, too, share in the adverse recommendations of the health officer, who says:"The keeping of chickens, ducks and geese within the city limits as the city grows more thickly settled, becomes a condition in need of stringent regulation. No fowls should be permitted to be kept except under a permit revocable for cause. This would limit the keeping of fowls where there is not proper ground space and sanitary provision.
"No flock should be allowed to contain roosters in a neighborhood where dwellings are in close proximity, as the noise of crowing roosters is very annoying to some people, especially in the early morning."Dr. Jordan explained to a reporter that his department receives many complaints of crowing roosters and said he believed they often cause harm to nervous and ill persons by depriving them of needed sleep.MAN ARRESTED ON WARRANT BROUGHT BY THE DEUTSCHLANDPrisoner Taken in Jersey City Wanted
in Germany for the Murder of a Girl.NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Among the passengers brought from Germany by the submarine merchantman Deutschland, was a warrant for the arrest of Wladislaw Kubicki, 34 years old, for the murder of Valerie Kleszczynska, in Mecklenburg-Schwierin, in November, 1914.
Two Jersey City detectives yesterday arrested a man who admitted, they say, he is Kubicki. He was held to await extradition.According to the detectives, Kubicki was infatuated with the girl. This led to a quarrel between her and Kubicki's wife. Later, the girl, after drawing her pay, was seen walking with Kubicki and another man. Kubicki and his companion spent money freely in cafes of a nearby town. They did not return.
The girl's body was not found until October, 1915, when a drouth dried up a pond. It had been tied to a steel rail.Kubicki, the police say, admitted every circumstance in the story except killing the girl.

Man Tells Belleville Grocer Obligation Troubled His Conscience.A man who had owed a $50 grocery bill for 27 years called yesterday at the home of George Rauschko, a Belleville grocer, and paid the account. He said he had prospered in the last few years and didn't want the account troubling his conscience any more.The man did not offer to pay any interest, and the grocer was so acere-ally surprised that he forgot to mention it.

paid that neither had a cent.

FIGHT ON TRAIN;
ONE MAN KILLEDReturned St. Louisans Tell of Their Struggle With Chicago Men in and Near Cleveland.

USE KNIVES, FISTS, PISTOLS

One Shot and Pushed Under Wheels; Three in St. Louis Party Are Arrested.Railroad strike breakers who returned to St. Louis this morning gave details of a fight with revolvers, knives and fists between St. Louis and Chicago gangs on a New York Central train as it entered Cleveland yesterday morning.
In which one man was killed and several so seriously injured that their recovery is doubtful.The men had been sent from St. Louis and Chicago labor agencies to New York
in anticipation of a railroad strike.
When it was found that they would not be needed they were put on a train at New York to be taken home. The St. Louis contingent had a separate car.
Men who have returned say Chicago men entered the St. Louis car and robbed several of the occupants.Quarrels resulted in a general fight, the Chicago men storming the St. Louis car and being received with a fusillade of shots. One Chicago man, who had been wounded, was thrown off and fell in front of the wheels and was run over.
Others who appeared to be seriously wounded were carried out after the train was stopped in the Cleveland yards.Three St. Louisans Arrested.
Carroll Boyd, known as "Curley," of 318 Chouteau avenue; Edward J. Brennan, of 1686 Monroe street; and C. A.
Smith of 1516 1/2 Market street were arrested.According to a news dispatch a man known as "Curley," from St. Louis, was killed. The strike breakers who have returned say this is a mistake, as Boyd was the only member of the party who was known as "Curley," and they saw him arrested and led away after the fight.News dispatches from Cleveland state that the fighting began shortly after the train left Erie. It continued as the train proceeded through Wickliffe and when the train stopped at the East 10th street station in Cleveland the men poured out of the cars and fought furiously on the platform. Police who responded to a hot call in patrol wagons and automobiles surrounded the train
when it stopped at Seventy-ninth street and made a number of arrests. Many revolvers, knives and bludgeons, discarded by the fighters when the police appeared, were found scattered along the track.There were 375 men on the train. Sixty-seven were from St. Louis. The fight took place in the St. Louis coach and one of the Chicago coaches, adjoining.
Practically every window in the coach
at 16th street, climbed back on the train. The shot that killed him, the police say, was fired by Brennan, who is also alleged to have kicked him from the platform of the coach. His body fell under the wheels and both feet were cut.Slain Man From Chicago.
The man who was killed was from Chicago and was known only as "Curley." He was shot shortly after the men, trying their fight on the platform
at 16th street, climbed back on the train. The shot that killed him, the police say, was fired by Brennan, who
is also alleged to have kicked him from
the platform of the coach. His body
fell under the wheels and both feet were cut.The dispatches say that the fight started over a 15-year-old boy, Morris Bluff, from St. Louis. J. N. Watkins, the employment agent, who sent the men East, says there was no such boy among them.

OPPOSITION TO EIGHT-HOUR LAW

Railroad Employee Says Many Workers Will Fight It.CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Employees of the railroads other than the four brother-hoods are to make a determined fight up against the eight-hour law, according to Robert T. Frazier, an employee of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railroad, here today. He claimed to have obtained many signers to a petition to Congress protesting against the law.Frazier will leave for Pittsburgh today and following a visit to Philadelphia and New York will get to Washington to present his petition to Congress. He claims the new law only affects 400,000 men and ignores 1,500,000 other employees of the railroads.

HELD FOR KILLING MINISTER

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 5.—Will Trotter, under arrest at Shady Grove,
Ala., charged with killing the Rev. J. E.
C. Harris, admitted, according to Shady Grove police officials that he shot Harris, but declared he "was fully justified." According to reports reaching Birmingham the minister had been suspended by church officials on charges of misconduct with Mrs. Trotter, who is organist at the church.

Conditions of Great Danger.LONDON, Sept. 5.—King George today awarded the Victoria Cross to Lieut.
William Leefe Robinson of the Royal Flying Corps for bringing down a Zepppelin while the airship was approaching London Saturday night.The Official Press Bureau says the cross was awarded to Lieut. Robinson for conspicuous bravery. Robinson, the statement adds, attacked the Zeppelin under circumstances of great difficulty and danger and sent it to the ground, a flaming wreck. Robinson had been in the air for more than two hours and had previously attacked another airship.Officers and men of the German airship destroyed will be buried with full military honors.Each body will be placed in an oak coffin covered with a German flag and carried to the burial place on a gun carriage. British soldiers will comprise the firing party and a British army chaplain will conduct the services.FELICE PFAAT'S CASE NOT LIKE EDITH CAVELL'S, FRENCH SAYReasons for the French Woman's Execution at Marseilles as Spy Made Public.PARIS, Sept. 5.—In view of recent German comment on the execution at Marseilles recently as a spy of Felice Pfaat, certain details of the case were made known authoritatively here today. The statement that the woman was a German was denied and it was said that the comparison of her case with that of Edith Cavell, the British nurse who was put to death by the Germans at Brussels, was unwarranted.According to this information Felice Pfaat was a French woman. She received permission in 1914 to visit her mother in Belgium. While there, it is said, a German official engaged her to gather military information in Paris.
She spent three weeks in Paris and then reported the results to Germans, who,
she admitted, paid her 500 francs ($1000) to undertake another mission.Returning to Paris from Switzerland, last year she went to Marseilles, where she boarded at a house frequented by army officers. She was caught in the act of spying and confessed. On July 10 she was unanimously condemned to death by a court martial.COURT HOLDS SPEED LAWS OF TOWNS IN COUNTY ARE VOIDJudge MacMillan Rules That 15-Mile-an-Hour Ordinances Conflict
With State Statute.Judge MacMillan of the St. Louis County Circuit Court, in a decision handed down today, held that the speed laws of all of the incorporated towns in the county are in conflict with the State law and consequently are void.The decision was on a motion to quash an information charging A. B. Frey, a St. Louis attorney, with speeding on Manchester avenue, in Maplewood, last March. Frey was said to have been driving at a rate of 35 miles an hour and was charged in the information with driving in excess of 15 miles, in violation of the Maplewood ordinance. He was convicted in the Maplewood Police Court of speeding and fined $5 by Judge Ragland. He appealed.The speed limit across the most of the towns in the county is 15 miles an hour.
The State law sets 35 miles as the maximum, stipulating that the driver of a motor vehicle who shall drive at the rate of 25 miles an hour for a half-mile shall be guilty of speeding.U. S. DECLINES TO HOLD ALL

Will Make No Change.TOKYO, Sept. 5.—Japan has officially assured the United States that the alliance recently made by Russia and Japan will not affect the status quo in the far East.The Russo-Japanese convention was signed at Petrograd July 2. The Russian Foreign Office, in reply to a question from the Associated Press, after the treaty had been signed, said as to what effect the alliance would have upon the open door and the integrity of China, stated:"The convention is essentially an emphasis upon and an extension of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance, based upon the territorial integrity of China, whose open door and integrity are not in danger. American trade and interests are in no wise affected."

LINES LIKE FORTRESSES

Correspondent Permitted to Inspect Miles of Trenches Along Russian Front.HEADQUARTERS OF THE COM-MANDER IN CHIEF OF THE GER-MAN ARMIES IN THE EAST, Monday,
Sept. 4, via Berlin and London, Sept. 5.— How little Rumania's entrance in the war worries those in command of the German Eastern armies was indicated today when Prince Leopold of Bavaria said to the Associated Press correspondent:"The Rumanians have placed themselves in a very bad position. They will get their whacks, you may be sure, and others come in they will get their whacks, too."These words of the Prince were in reply to a question regarding the possible or probable effect of Rumania's declaration of war. In replying, Prince Leopold dropped the friendly and almost benign attitude he had displayed throughout the interview—the first granted to a correspondent since his promotion to the command formerly held by Field Marshal von Hindenburg. His eyes snapped most angrily, his voice became hard and sharp. In a moment, however, he dropped this topic and returned to questioning his visitors about the trip they had just completed along the Russo-German front in the neighborhood of Baranovich, admittedly one of the most important strategic points in relation to past as well as future offensives.Prince Is Confident.
The Prince's expression of complete confidence that Rumania would be defeated was in the nature of a climax to countless declarations of belief from other officers that Russia would never be able to effect any important break in the German lines. The correspondent was permitted to make an exhaustive inspection of miles of trenches which are more like fortresses than anything else. They surpass any other fortifications the correspondent had seen during many trips to the Eastern and Western fronts.Prince Leopold did not look his seventy-four years when he received the small group of visitors at his headquarters. He greeted each one with a firm handshake, made minute inquiries regarding the newspapers represented by each and with a smile told the two Americans the United States was delivering too much ammunition to Germany's opponents.He expressed the hope of "a more friendly attitude among neutrals toward Germany."
After the interview with the Prince,
which he apparently intentionally kept as free as possible from political and military questions, his chief of staff, Col. Hoffman, took up the eastern situation in detail. He was clear in his voice the precise sentiments of Prince Leopold when he humorously assured the correspondents they might consider they were dealing with "the firm of Leopold, Hoffman & Co.""Rumania's entrance," Col. Hoffman continued, "probably will mean prolon-gation of the war. It certainly will mean that the entente will take courage again and pitch in on another forlorn hope of accomplishing something. But it is unthinkable that it will in any way affect the eventual outcome.""It is probable that Russian troops were admitted to Rumania weeks ago, in violation of neutrality, but we are not worried in the slightest degree."The Colonel declared that the Rumanian advances thus far had been of importance and will soon come to a standstill.Turning to the Russians, the Colonel pointed out the strategic importance to them of Kovel and Baranovich, each a railroad center at which roads from the east-west and north-south meet. For possession of these points the Russians have made the most desperate efforts since last March efforts so great, in fact, that the Germans believe it entirely possible that the Russian losses in the last six months have exceeded one million.Defending 350-Mile Front.
Although the Germans are defending a front of about 350 miles between Riga and Tarnopol, it is almost a matter of indifference to them,
Col. Hoffman declared, where the Russians choose to make their next attack. He pointed out that occasionally the attack is made by the Russian necessity of sacrificing isolated forward trench sections to vastly superior numbers but he referred to recent fighting, especially that at Narocz Lake to show these positions are able to withstand when there exists military observation points or they are dangerous as Russian observation points.Whenever possible from a military standpoint, he said, Germany prefers to let go half a square mile rather than to lose a few hundred dead or wounded to retake it. The Colonel emphasized the perfect military cooperation between the German and Austrian forces on the eastern front.He predicted a speedy ending of the Russian advances in the south and declared the entire front, German and Austrian, would soon be completely established.Bavarian Prince Who Discusses

PRINCE LEOPOLD.PEARY'S "CROCKER LAND" A MIRAGE, NAVY ENSIGN SAYSCompanion of MacMillan Tells of Observations on Three Months' Polar Trip.NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Ensign Fitzgreen Green, U. S. N., who accompanied Donald B. MacMillan in 1913 on his expedition in search of "Crocker Land" reached here today from the Danish Steamship United States
Copenhagen. He confirmed previous reports that "Crocker Land" does not exist.Green said he accompanied MacMillan on his three months' trip from Cape Thomas Hubbard, where their ship was disabled, out over the Polar Sea toward where Rear Admiral Peary claimed to have seen Crocker Land.
Peary, according to Green, claimed to have made his observations about 130 miles from the Greenland coast.
MacMillan and Green travelled 150 miles and, favored by clear weather, they determined from observations and careful soundings that what Peary had seen was a mirage. This belief was further confirmed, Green said, by the fact that they themselves saw a mirage.In company with Dr. Maurice C.
Tanquary, Jerome L. Allen, wireless operator for the MacMillan expedition, and Dr. E. O. Hovey, who led an expedition to MacMillan's relief in 1915 and joined him at Etah, Green early this year set out on a 1500-mile dog sled journey to a southern Greenland post.Dr. Hovey after going 60 miles returned to his ship. The others continued, making their way to Denmark.
Dr. Tanquary and Allen preceded Ensign Green home.

Coyne also said, has notified him that

PARIS, Sept. 5.—Vigorous counter attacks were made by the Germans north of the Somme last night in an effort to regain ground taken in the new drive of the French. The War Office announced today that the Germans were repulsed with heavy loss.The German assaults north of the Somme were delivered between Comblis and Forest. South of the river unsuccessful blows were struck by the Germans east of Bellay. In these operations the French took 100 prisoners. The activities of the French are again being hindered by bad weather, which prevented all night over the whole Somme front.British troops last night increased their hold on the neighborhood of Guillemont, says the British official statement, issued this afternoon. The British forces pushed forward to 1500 yards east of Guillemont village and secured a hold on Leuze Wood. Further south a strong German system of defenses on a front of 2000 feet around Falfelt farm was captured.The British announcement says the fighting since Sept. 3 has resulted in the capture of the whole of the remaining German system of defenses from Moquet Farm to the point where the British line joins the French.
The capture of Soyecourt and Chilly
by the French yesterday makes a total of 15 villages taken since the start of the offensive, to a moving front, where the Germans were powerfully organized.At Barleux, one of the strongest positions on this front, repeated direct attacks were unsuccessful and the French finally resorted to a moving movement, attacking to the southwest.

CHARLES A. STIX FUNERAL WILL BE HELD THURSDAY

Services for Merchant Will Be at Temple Israel; Was Ill Seven Months.

SUPPORTER OF CHARITIES

Was Active in Civic Affairs and Was Director of Louisiana Exposition.

The funeral of Charles A. Stix, president of the Stix, Baer & Fuller Dry Goods Co., who died at 6 o'clock last evening at his home, 25 Portland place, after a seven months' illness, from cancer, will be held Thursday morning at Temple Israel. The company's store, the Grand-Leader, will be closed on that day.

Stix was 55 years old, and his business career began at the age of 19, as a stock clerk in a Cincinnati dry goods house. He came to St. Louis in 1887, and in 1892 became the head of the firm of Stix, Baer & Fuller. This business outgrew two former homes before entering its present eight-story building on Washington avenue, covering a city block.

His illness began last February, and he was treated in the late winter and spring in New York, and then went to Chicago, where he and Mrs. Stix remained through the summer at the Chicago Beach Hotel. At the Michael Reese Hospital, a number of operations were performed, in the endeavor to remove the cancerous growth, which affected the bladder.

The most recent treatment applied was the use of mesothorium rays, which have radio activity, but this treatment proved ineffective, and friends of the family knew when Mr. and Mrs. Stix returned to their dwelling last Sunday morning, that he had come home to die.

Stix was aggressive and practical-minded in his business, and in the numerous forms of public business to which he gave much of his time and energy. He was one of the most active and generous supporters of grand opera, as well as of the Symphony Society. He was an early and constant upholder of the civic movement which culminated in the Pageant and Masque of 1914.

He was a director of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, and was for several years a member of the Executive Committee of the Business Men's League. He was elected to the City Council in 1907 to fill an unexpired term and he was re-elected to the City League. In these public positions he showed a keen interest in welfare work, particularly in improving housing conditions in the poorer districts.

Supporter of Charities.

He was one of the most liberal givers to the work of the Jewish Charitable and Educational Alliance, and was a director of the Jewish Orphan Asylum in Cleveland. He gave freely to charitable institutions under the auspices of various sects, his only consideration being the amount of practical good they were doing. He was most closely interested in the welfare of the employees of his store, particularly those in less important positions. The Grand-Leader Country Club, on the Meramec river, was provided largely through his efforts. He was married in 1890 to Miss Sadie Friley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Friley. Miss Winifred Stix, whose engagement to Henry Rice was lately announced, is their adopted child. His mother and two sisters survive him, the sisters being Mrs. Elias Michael, widow of the president of the Rice-Six Dry Goods Co., and Mrs. Eugene Wall.

At the time of their silver wedding anniversary, in May, 1915, when their friends were planning to celebrate the event, Mr. and Mrs. Stix suddenly left the city, and it was determined that they had "died." They remained away several days.

Officers of the Stix, Baer & Fuller Co. were summoned to St. Louis by telegrams sent out Sunday. Sigmond Baer, secretary of the company, arrived at the house a half hour after Stix's death. The others were at the house during the afternoon.

GREEK COMMITTEE EXPLAINS ITS AIMS

ATHENS, Greece, Sept. 5.—The Committee of National Defense, which took over the administration of the portions of Northern Greece in which the revolutionists gained control, has issued a proclamation declaring it does not desire to alter the Constitution, but merely to cause the nation to rise against the Bulgarians who have invaded Greek Macedonia.

The committee also announces its intention of establishing a sanitary service, a press bureau, and courtmartial. Five hundred discharged Greek revolutionists, all of them having places of residence in the United States, were not permitted to embark today for New York, owing to the possibility of their being a threat.

Hungarians and Rumanians Drank Together Just Before War Was Declared.

PARIS, Sept. 5.—Half an hour before Rumania declared war Hungary officers were drinking with Rumanians at the frontier station. Soon afterwards a Rumanian outpost entered the station and took the Hungarians prisoners. The Rumanian offensive was so sudden that the Austrians had no time to blow up bridges or tunnels.

POLITICIAN DIES OF PARALYSIS

Thomas Souley, 53 years old, of 401 Easton avenue, formerly a member of the Democratic City Committee, died last night at his home from paralysis, believed by relatives to have been caused by sudden shock when he was knocked down by an automobile truck at Fourth street and Washington avenue, two weeks ago.

He was attempting to board a Page avenue car when the truck struck him. He was picked up apparently uninjured and helped onto the car. When Grand avenue was reached he suffered a stroke of paralysis.

To End Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness and head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can be successfully treated at home by an internal remedy that in many instances has effected a complete cure after all else has failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear a watch tick have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear.

Therefore, if you know someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them, and you will have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmit (Double Strength), about 15¢ worth. Take this home and add to it 1 pint of hot water and 4 oz. of granulated sugar. Boil this mixture for 15 minutes. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

100,000 PERSONS IN HUNGARY FLEE FROM RUMANIANS

Scenes Are Like Those Witnessed Previously in East Prussia and Poland.

REFUGEES OF ALL CLASSES

Bankers and Peasants Move Side by Side Along Country Roads.

By Karl H. Von Wiegand.

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World. Copyright, 1916, by Press Pub. Co.

BUDAPEST, Sept. 5.—Moving westward from the Siedenburger country are thousands of refugees fleeing before the Rumanian invaders. From Orosova, at the Iron Gate of the Danube, more than 200 kilometers (125 miles) northward, scores and scores of trains and columns of refugees are crawling over the wide and wonderfully fertile plains of Hungary, where so much renowned prairie land like Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska or Kansas.

Rattling, creaking and groaning, the snake-like columns wind their way over the beautiful roads, unwrapped in dust that covers them like a cloud. With their personal belongings hastily snatched when the alarm sounded that the Rumanians were coming, these people are moving inland beyond the line where the new battles of the war will be fought.

Many Kinds of Vehicles.

Every kind and description of vehicle has been pressed into use, from rickety little farm wagons drawn by oxen to the finest carriages, with prancing blooded horses. Banker and peasant are mingled side by side.

The vivid colors of the Hungarian peasant costumes contrast glaringly with the black of those in mourning, the mooring children make a medley of colors as varied and great as that of color.

Babies are seeing the first light of the world by the roadside; others are born under canvas hastily thrown over the wagons. The aged and sick are pressed out from the wagons. The columns, and even dead babies are being brought along for burial far from the invader.

A hundred thousand persons, suddenly torn up root and branch from their homes and fleeing, make a picture few can imagine. I have seen it before when the Russians invaded East Prussia, and again later in Poland. It is the same picture of misery, wretchedness and suffering.

Refugees Fill Budapest.

About 20,000 refugees reached Budapest by train. They largely represent the better class. The hotels are jammed.

Food is still plentiful. I had eggs, ham and butter, the latter unlimited, all for breakfast, and all three of which are unobtainable in Berlin in the morning. White bread, to which Budapest clung last of all the cities of the central Powers, now is a thing of the past here also, and war bread has taken its place.

Budapest is responding to the needs of the refugees from the eastern borders with the lavishness and generosity for which Budapest people are known. Many private homes have been thrown open, and every effort is being made to house, feed and furnish to the refugees. The Budapest newspapers have raised nearly $300,000 as a refugee relief fund in three days.

Deep Mourning Worn by Members at Staging of Hungarian House.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—The sitting of the Hungarian House of Magnates at Budapest Saturday, when Premier Tisza explained the necessity of depleting Transylvania of troops in order to bring the Russian offensive to a standstill, (deprive the Renter correspondent at Bern Switzerland, was marked by the utmost depression. All the members were attired in deep mourning.

Owing to the difficulties of the internal situation, the correspondent says, the Hungarian Minister of Education has ordered all schools in Hungary closed until Nov. 1.

Acid Stomachs Are Dangerous

Nine Tenths of All Stomach Trouble Due to Acidity Says New York Physician.

A well-known New York physician who has made a special study of stomach and intestinal diseases recently made the startling statement that nearly all intestinal trouble as well as many diseases of the vital organs, are directly traceable to excessive stomach acidity commonly termed sour stomach or heartburn which not only irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach but may often cause gastritis and dangerous stomach ulcers.

Neglect, he says, easily leads to a chronic super-acidity, commonly mistaken for indigestion and is the principal cause for the indiscriminate swallowing of the various so-called patent digestive remedies, bringing only temporary and false relief.

In an acid condition of the stomach no artificial digestants whatever should be employed as these are likely to merely pass the sour, burning acid on into the intestines, causing serious trouble there. Instead, he recommends the use of some simple, harmless and inexpensive antacid such as a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda taken with a little hot or cold water right after meals or whenever distress is felt.

This simple remedy in just a few moments is entering the stomach and neutralizes or sweetens all its sour acidity. It does not irritate the lining and there will be no need for medicine. Sufferers from acidity, sour stomach or indigestion should get a few ounces of the Pure Bismarck antacid from their druggist and give this treatment a trial. In view of the many varieties of antacids used for various purposes, stomach sufferers should be careful to get it only in the form of either the Pure Bismarck antacid or in a sealed package to insure its purity.

BRITISH LABOR UNIONS ASK STATE TO ACQUIRE RAILROADS

Workers, in Congress, Reveal Lloyd-George's Charge That They Are Not Doing Share in War.

BIRMINGHAM, England, Sept. 5.—A determined stand for nationalization of the railroads of Great Britain was taken today by the Trades Union Congress, representing nearly 2,500,000 men. The Congress demanded acquisition of the railroads by the state and a voice in their control for the workers. The project for the creation of a Ministry of Labor also was approved by a large majority.

Assertions made by David Lloyd-George, Secretary for War, that workers are not doing all that they should, were denounced unanimously and it was pointed out that 90 per cent of the soldiers in the trenches are working men. Many hard words were spoken in regard to the Secretary, and a retraction by him was demanded.

The possibility of industrial conscription was discussed at length and the congress requested soldiers to work in factories unless they are placed on the same footing as civilians in regard to treatment and wages.

GERARD PLANNING TO HAVE INTERNEED CIVILIANS PAROLED

Ambassador Negotiating for Germany and England to Make Exchanges—Men Would Not Enter Army.

BERLIN, via London, Sept. 5.—The thousands of civilians interned in Germany, who so much renowned prairie land like Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska or Kansas. Rattling, creaking and groaning, the snake-like columns wind their way over the beautiful roads, unwrapped in dust that covers them like a cloud. With their personal belongings hastily snatched when the alarm sounded that the Rumanians were coming, these people are moving inland beyond the line where the new battles of the war will be fought.

For some time the German and British authorities have been working on a proposal to exchange all interned civilians above the military age, 45. While these negotiations were hanging fire it was discovered that the German authorities were willing to take into consideration a proposal for a general exchange of internees.

Great Britain's attitude thus far has not been made known, but it is felt here that the simplicity and completeness of the solution may appeal to the British as it has to the Germans.

RIOTERS ATTACK STREET CARS

Traffic in El Paso, Tex., Halted for Time by Fighting.

EL PASO, Tex., Sept. 5.—Rioting, an outgrowth of a strike of street railway employees, followed a Labor day parade here yesterday. The rioters attacked several street cars being operated by strikebreakers in the downtown streets, wrecked the cars, and beat the trainmen. A dozen persons were arrested and it is estimated that at least 50 persons were injured.

After several hours of disturbance, when street car traffic had been suspended, the mobs dispersed. When traffic was resumed a policeman with orders to shoot anyone interfering with the cars was detailed to protect the cars. Meanwhile all saloons in the city were closed until further notice and all soldiers stationed in this district were ordered to their camps.

FOUR BIG DAIRIES SAY THEY HAVE 31 WAGONS ON ROUTES

Officials Declare Deliveries Will Be Steadily Increased Under "Open Shop" Plan.

With 31 wagons delivering milk for the four principal dairies involved in the milk wagon drivers' strike, dairy officials declared this morning that the strike, which began four weeks ago, had resulted in a victory for them.

John P. Cabanne, president of the St. Louis Dairy Co., said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that the dairies would add to their service daily, until the normal distribution is reached. He said the dairymen were held back last week not so much by the drivers' strike as by the prospect of a railroad strike, which might have interfered seriously with their supply. Now that this danger is removed, he said, the dairymen will proceed to resume business and will hereafter run on the open shop basis.

The St. Louis Dairy Co. had five retail delivery wagons out, Cabanne said. According to officials of the other dairies, the Fevely Co. had 12 retail wagons in service, the Union Dairy four and the Grafeman Dairy 10.

J. W. Hagemeier, secretary of the Fevely Co., said the company was selling 60 per cent of its product, as compared with 40 per cent last week. D. C. Kerckhoff, president of the company, in an interview more than two weeks ago, said the company was selling two-thirds of its product. William Grafeman said today that his company was doing a 30 per cent business.

Business Agent Barr of the drivers' union said, when told of the figures given out by the dairymen, that he did not see how they could do the proportion of business they claimed with the number of wagons they were running. He said the Fevely company, before the strike, had 165 wagons, the Union company 115, the St. Louis 75 and the Grafeman 61.

Barr said the union drivers considered that they had won the strike, and that they would continue picketing and other peaceful methods of carrying on their campaign consistent with the injunction decree issued by Judge Anderson.

Milk delivery was resumed today by a St. Louis Dairy Co. wagon, under police protection, in the apartments along Westminster place, in the vicinity of Laurel street. Strikers went ahead against the householders not to buy milk and an ice wagon driver, who was about to make deliveries in the neighborhood, announced that those who bought "scab" milk could get no ice from him. As most of the families had already sent out for their milk supply, a number of them declared that they needed ice more than they needed additional milk.

THRILLING CHARGE AND COUNTER-CHARGE IN THE BATTLE OF THE SOMME

Prussian Guard Come Out of Their Trenches to Meet British—Germans Fire 10,000 Gas Shells in Day.

By an Associated Press Correspondent.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, via London, Sept. 5.—Despite their determined counter-attacks yesterday, when they advanced in waves, shoulder to shoulder, in defense of this chosen strategic point, the Germans had to yield Falfemont Farm this morning. The British had closed around it in the darkness and dawn found the survivors of the garrison raked with machine gun fire. In a hopeless situation, plastered with mud after a night of cold and heavy rain and having gone two days without sleep, they put up the white flag.

Meanwhile a British battalion, finding little opposition, on its own initiative, pressed on through the mud and the shell craters and gained the edge of Leusau Wood, which carried them past Ginchy, where the Germans are fortified amid the ruins with nests of machine guns.

Irish Distinguished Themselves.

The British gain since Sunday is more than a mile in depth. Irish troops of the new army enlisted through the efforts of John Redmond and other Nationalist leaders, distinguishing themselves by taking Guillemet. They rounded up numerous prisoners in dugouts and swept forward toward their objective characteristic dash.

As a result of two days' work, the British, in case they decide to make no further advance this year, command all the ridge of battle front from Thiepval south, except around Ginchy. This means, as one British officer said, that "the Germans would have to dance to our tune through the winter."

A wonderful spectacle of war was visible yesterday from a high point near the junction of the French and British armies.

To the north lay a dark patch—the ruins of Guillemet—fringed by a wave-like line of old second line German trenches facing Trones Wood across a space of 10 city blocks, which is vained like a frog's foot with trenches and runways the British had dug.

For six weeks the British burrowed against the Germans over this shell-captured, bullet-riddled field. Yesterday (Sunday) was a day of successful British effort to break through this German bulwark.

600 Prisoners Taken.

The British artillery had not destroyed all of the deep dugouts, but the curtain of intensified shell fire kept the machine gunners down and out of those dugouts after half an hour's work the British infantry turned out some 600 prisoners.

A little farther perhaps beyond Guillemont than three times the distance from second base to the home plate is a sunken road at the north end, which is another patch—the ruins of Ginchy—where the fighting between British and German surged back and forth between barbed wire and cellars and any kind of cover that the men can throw up out of the debris.

The British seem to be firmly established in the sunken road. All night they were digging themselves into some of the cellars, firing to the tune of some snipers' shots. From there, the French took Briton, and from there British cheered the French after the successes of yesterday.

Guns Kept Busy.

Gen. Foch's steel-throated orders were very busy down there in the green landscape of the winding Somme, where shrapnel smoke lay soft against the foliage, fresh from the night's rain, and across the Somme as far as the eye could see ran this canopy of flames from three of guns that seemed to sweep the north, firing to the tune of some snipers' shots.

Nearer and nearer Paronne that wave of fire moved with every battle. The Germans did not know how many men Father Joffre had up his sleeve, and a French soldier, "and Gen. Foch knew how to use them."

Last night the enormous gas fire, a British officer estimated that the Germans fired 10,000 gas shells in a day.

Bayonet to Bayonet.

At the southern end of the sunken road is a finger-point of the green wedgewood, and below this lies Falfemont Farm, where the British attack stopped yesterday. Here the Prussian guard left their trenches in a charge to meet the British attack halfway. Thus they came bayonet to bayonet. The big guns could send no shells, the machine guns no bullets, for fear of hitting their own men.

All the machinery of war, with its missiles which kill men at long range, formed around these combatants, who fought virtually to extinction with cold steel.

Today around Falfemont Farm the picture was intimate, yet incomprehensible to observers in its ebb and flow of attack. The contrast between Prussian and British methods stood out as in a panorama. The British charge, moving up with each unit seeming to act for itself and yet keeping its formation and then the German counter attack in a regular wave followed by another, dipping with the undulations of the ground.

Figures in the first wave began to drop as the British machine guns started to rattle, and yet the second wave came on in a way that made a British officer, with characteristic sportsmanship, exclaim: "Magnificent Topping!"

Charges Met by Counter Charges.

The second wave melted on the ground where the first wave had disappeared. But the results were confused. An observer could only tell that charges were met by counter charges, while machine guns in hidden places waited for their game with their murderous blasts.

It could not always be told whether figures leaving the trenches were men retreating or prisoners under escort. Fast running figures from both sides to their rear were either messengers bringing back word of the situation to their commanders when all other signals failed to work or they were runners to get more bombs, whose puffs of smoke were visible from a distance. Whether these gallant fellows would get through without being hit was the question. Most of the time the British lost to view in mists of shell smoke. Farther south the blue of the sky appeared in the earth, and back to the lines French and British guns and troops, British wounded and French wounded came along the same path as German prisoners. Sometimes British litter bearers took French men, and French took Briton, and from there British cheered the French after the successes of yesterday.

Foch's steel-throated orders were very busy down there in the green landscape of the winding Somme, where shrapnel smoke lay soft against the foliage, fresh from the night's rain, and across the Somme as far as the eye could see ran this canopy of flames from three of guns that seemed to sweep the north, firing to the tune of some snipers' shots.

SENATE COMMITTEE APPROVES PURCHASE OF DANISH ISLES

Effort Will Be Made to Have Ratified Before Adjournment of Congress.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—The treaty for purchase of the Danish West Indies for $25,000,000 was ordered favorably reported to the Senate today by the Foreign Relations Committee by a unanimous vote of Senators present.

It will be reported later today and an effort made to have it ratified before adjournment of Congress. The committee voted in favor of the treaty after a subcommittee reported there was nothing objectionable in the privileges and concessions granted various corporations which the treaty proposes to continue in force.

"It is to be hoped that the treaty can be ratified at once," said Senator Brand, "but of course there is no disposition to let it delay adjournment."

LONDON, Sept. 5.—A Copenhagen dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. says the Danish political crisis arising out of the proposed sale of the Danish West Indies shows signs of collapsing suddenly.

"Although a general election seemed inevitable yesterday," the dispatch says, "it now looks as if the sale might still be accomplished without an election. The leaders of the Conservative party today proposed to the Premier that negotiations for the formation of a coalition Cabinet be reopened, and the Premier consented."

WILSON CHEERED ALONG THE LINE ON WAY TO CAPITAL

Crowds Greet President at Every Stop, but He Refuses to Talk Politics.

SPEECH TO WOMEN FRIDAY

No Other Engagement After That Until He Comes to St. Louis Sept. 20.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—President Wilson returned here at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon from Hodgenville, Ky. He was driven immediately to the White House.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Sept. 5. on board President Wilson's special train.

President Wilson is returning to Washington today enthusiastic over the reception accorded to him in Kentucky, West Virginia and Virginia yesterday.

He is due to arrive at the national capital at 2 o'clock this afternoon and will remain there until Friday, when he goes to Atlantic City, N. J., to address the National Women Suffrage Association. Then he will return to Long Branch and does not expect to return to Washington more than a month.

Last night he passed through the territory in which Charles E. Hughes speaks today. At Lexington, Ky., a crowd of several hundred persons, with a band, cheered him continuously until his train pulled out.

Today the President still refused to make political speeches on the present trip because he went to Hodgenville, Ky., to honor Abraham Lincoln. He expressed his attitude last night to a crowd at Winchester, Ky., which demanded a speech.

"I did not come here on a speech-making tour. God bless you all."

The cheering of the large crowds at every station through which the President passed caused him to smile broadly and shake hands with as many as possible.

"I never received such receptions," he remarked.

After the Atlantic City speech the President has no engagements before Sept. 20 when he goes to St. Louis. During his stay at Long Branch, however, he will see many delegations and write several political letters.

HUGHES LIKELY TO STUMP MISSOURI LATE THIS MONTH

National Committee Tentatively Agrees to Send Candidate to Several Cities.

The Republican National Committee has been asked by National Committeeman Jacob L. Babler and the Republican State Committee to schedule Charles E. Hughes for speeches in this State at Sedalia, Springfield, Joplin and Cape Girardeau during the latter part of September. The national committee has tentatively promised to send the presidential candidate back to this State, and it is probable that he will speak at Sedalia during the State fair.

The Republicans are going to make a hard fight to win the 18 electoral votes of Missouri.

The national committee was also asked to send Col. Roosevelt, former President Taft and Charles W. Fairbanks, candidate for Vice President, to this State. The committee has this request under consideration.

Former Supreme Judge Henry Lamm, Republican candidate for Governor, conferred with the Republican State Committee today relative to his itinerary. Lamm will make his first extensive speech of the campaign at the opening at Springfield next Monday, where all the State candidates and most of the congressional candidates will make speeches. Walter S. Dickey, candidate for United States Senator, against Senator Reed, will also make his first speech at the Springfield meeting.

The Democrats and Republicans will have their campaign in full swing next week. The Democrats open at Joplin next Tuesday, with Vice President Marshall, Speaker Champ Clark and Senators Reed and Stone as the principal speakers.

The Republican candidates will start on their tour of the State from Springfield, and the Democratic candidates will start out from Joplin. A series of meetings in big circus tents will be held by the Democrats in all parts of the State, beginning at Independence, Mo., Sept. 13. United States Senators Ollie James of Kentucky, who was permanent chairman of the Democratic national convention in St. Louis in June, Hoke Smith of Georgia and Joseph Robinson of Arkansas, have promised Senator Reed to speak at a number of the tent meetings.

The Democrats expect to have President Wilson in the State for some political speeches before the close of the campaign. He will be here Sept. 20 to speak before an insurance meeting, and the Business Men's League, but his speeches will not be political.

Fred D. Gardner, Democratic candidate for Governor, will make his first speech of the campaign at Chillicothe, Sept. 23.

At $12.50—Niagara Falls—$12.50. And return, September 9, via Clover Leaf Route, 415 Olive street.

Ship Fred: Germans Seize Cargo. LONDON, Sept. 5.—The American sailing vessel Prins Valdemar, captured by the Germans July 20, and taken into Swinemunde, has been released, says a Copenhagen dispatch. The cargo of oil cake and foodstuffs was seized.

CHAS. HERTENSTEIN IS INSTALLED ON EFFICIENCY BOARD

Mayor Tells New Official He Wants Practical Administration of Affairs.

Charles Hertenstein, president of St. Louis Typographical Union No. 8, who was appointed a member of the Efficiency Board by Mayor Kiel to succeed Thomas H. Rogers, whose conduct of the board frequently has been criticized by the Mayor as "not practical," qualified for the office this morning. It is expected he will be chosen chairman.

Before taking the oath Hertenstein and the Mayor conferred in the Mayor's office.

The Mayor said: "Charles, we want real efficiency. The charter provides that the tests shall be practical, and that's what we want. I suggest you go through the departments and if you find any dead timber, remove it. We don't want anyone on the payroll unless he gives service. I think you will have the co-operation of the heads of departments."

"When the board is organized I invite you to come to my office so we can go over all these questions with a view to getting efficiency along practical lines."

Hertenstein interrupted: "Efficiency with common sense."

"Exactly," said the Mayor.

A committee of printers presented Hertenstein with a huge bouquet of roses, and escorted him to the Efficiency Board office, where he met Chairman Rogers. Rogers offered to aid Hertenstein in getting acquainted with the routine of the office, an offer which Hertenstein accepted.

BORDER ROUTINE AT NEVADA

St. Louis and Kansas City Regiments Established in State Camp Again.

NEVADA, Mo., Sept. 5.—With all companies of the First and Third regiments in camp at the Government reservation here, the St. Louis and Kansas City troops today settled down to the routine of army life. Col. A. B. Donnelly of St. Louis is in command of the camp. The men will go through the daily routine prescribed for them while they were doing patrol duty along the border near Laredo.

"War brides" who were married to guardsmen in Nevada just before the regiments left for the border are arriving in the city today to greet the newcomers.

MAN TAKES ACID AND DIES

Swallows Poison When Wife Refuses to Return to Him.

Fred Knepper, 37 years old, of 2009 Franklin avenue, a shoemaker, took carbolic acid at his mother-in-law's home at 2124 Franklin avenue this morning, and died.

He had tried to induce his wife, from whom he had been separated for a week, to return to him. She refused and Knepper a little later took the poison.

HUGHES STATES POSITION AS TO LABOR DISPUTES IN SPEECH AT NASHVILLE

Declares That He Favors Arbitration in All Cases and "Legislation on Facts," and Is Opposed to "Dictation."

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 5.—Charles E. Hughes last night faced a tumultuous audience in the auditorium here with cheers for Woodrow Wilson ringing again and again in his ears, heckled by questioners and halted often by Democratic sympathizers, the nominee criticized the administration for its policies, argued for a protective tariff, and, in a reference which the audience took to apply to the enactment of the Adamson bill, asserted that he stands firmly for the arbitration of all industrial disputes.

"I believe there is no grievance with respect to labor," Hughes said, "that cannot be settled by a fair, candid explanation of the facts."

"We have, in the past, had to deal frequently with the opposition of employers to the principle of arbitration. Sometimes they have refused to arbitrate disputes. Public opinion has been against them. I stand here firmly for the principle of arbitrating industrial disputes and I would not surrender it to anybody in the country."

Favors "Reign of Reason."

"I believe that anything that is right in this country can be settled right. What is our republican government? What are our free institutions? We have come down the long course of history with the people fighting slowly, slowly now with defeat and now with victory—for a recognition on the reign of reason instead of the reign of tyranny and force."

"Now, then, I stand for two things: 'First, for the principle of fair, impartial, thorough, candid arbitration; and second, for legislation on facts according to necessities of the case. And I am opposed to being dictated to either in the Executive Department of Congress or by any power on earth before the facts are known.'"

"We have a great country and a great future. But it can only be preserved in one way. That way is the way of all honest, fair investigation and candid treatment. Show me the way that is right and I will take it; but I won't take any way that I do not know anything about."

The audience, which had interrupted Hughes repeatedly in the earlier portion of his speech to cheer for Wilson, heard the nominee's declaration of his stance and at its conclusion applauded him.

The address, the second of the day, was delivered before a crowded house. The crowd came early and remained to hear all the nominee had to say. But before he started he showed plainly his attitude toward Huerta, declaring that the question was not one of recognition or non-recognition, but of protecting American rights.

"You would have recognized that as an answer," shouted a man from the audience, "wouldn't you?"

"Now, I didn't say that," Hughes started to reply. The rest of his answer was lost in the tumult which followed.

"What would you have done?" shouted another man as the noise subsided.

"I would have protected American rights," the nominee shouted quickly, pointing his finger at the questioner. The audience rose to its feet and applauded loudly.

Discusses Efficiency.

It was the last of the heckling, although there were two or three more outbursts of cheering for Wilson. The rest of Hughes' speech was devoted to a discussion of efficiency of Government.

The nominee entered Nashville yesterday morning to find a program different from the one he thought he would face. In that it provided for a review of the Tennessee National Guard and an address at a Labor day celebration. The first he declined, on the ground that he had no right to review Federalized troops. The proposal that he attend the Labor day celebration was dismissed when he was advised that labor leaders arranging it had not sent him a formal invitation and that if he spoke he would be restricted to topics of a nonpolitical nature.

Jackson Johnson Quits Wilson Club Over Eight-Hour Law.

Jackson Johnson, chairman of the board of directors of the International Shoe Co., resigned as a member of the Wilson Club because of the President's advocacy of the eight-hour law for railroad employees passed by Congress, he said today. In explaining his action to reporters, he said he has been a Democrat always, but that he feels at present he cannot vote for the President at the coming election. He said he may vote for Judge Hughes, or may later change his mind and vote for the President.

"My action in resigning from the Wilson Club was induced by the belief that the President, in putting through the eight-hour law, made a move purely for political exigencies," he said. "He faced a difficult proposition and chose to side with the votes of the labor organizations."

"I am not without sympathy for the workingman. Employees of our company who have been with us any length of time can always count on us to assist them in times of trouble or need. We have spent thousands of dollars in helping our employees and their families, because we thought it was right. We never advertised it."

"Still, I believe that laws passed to protect one class of workman and not another are wrong, and that laws passed for the benefit of organized workmen while unorganized workmen and their wives are ignored, are worse. A principal has been set up with the passage of the eight-hour law that cannot stand."

William Gray, general freight agent of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, also resigned from the Wilson Club, giving reasons similar to those of Johnson for his action.

J. Will Taylor, Republican State Chairman, the first speaker, was interrupted time after time by cheers for Wilson. Amid a burst of Wilson cheers he sat down and the second speaker, George N. Tillman, chairman of the meeting, stood up. Tillman was on his feet for 10 minutes, much of the time vainly endeavoring to make himself heard. He introduced Hughes and the audience waited in silence.

"I shall not forget the warmth of the welcome of this vociferous meeting," Hughes said, and the audience applauded. He added that what he had to say was to be said "good naturedly," at a time when the American people are "all taking stock."

"I do not desire in anything I say to express aught but the highest respect for those who do not agree with me," he continued. "I simply desire to say what I think, why I think it, why I am here, and then let the American people judge according to their own conscience."

The audience applauded and Hughes outlined his views on American industry, the test it will face when the war ends, and the doctrine of a protective tariff. He was interrupted frequently by applause and now and then by cheers for Wilson. More applause greeted his reference to labor legislation enacted during his terms as Governor of New York.

"Now our opponents do not believe in the doctrine of a protective tariff," he said, producing a memorandum from his pocket. He checked a Wilson cheer by adding:

"I am not going to say anything unpleasant, my friends. I am just going to read the Democratic platform." He read the tariff plank of the platform of 1912.

Says Wilson Case De Jure, Protecting American Industry.

"And the man who can do it is Woodrow Wilson," shouted a man from the balcony. A wave of handclapping checked the nominee.

"There would not be much disposition to clap," Hughes said, smiling, as the applause died down. "In this country, that doctrine (that expressed by the man in the balcony) got headway very long."

Hughes declared that "nobody would put over anything for private gain at the public expense" in tariff legislation. If he could help it. He was given prolonged applause. The nominee then assailed the administration for its policy toward Mexico. He outlined its attitude toward Huerta, declaring that the question was not one of recognition or non-recognition, but of protecting American rights.

"You would have recognized that as an answer," shouted a man from the audience, "wouldn't you?"

"Now, I didn't say that," Hughes started to reply. The rest of his answer was lost in the tumult which followed.

"What would you have done?" shouted another man as the noise subsided.

"I would have protected American rights," the nominee shouted quickly, pointing his finger at the questioner. The audience rose to its feet and applauded loudly.

TRAINING OF BOAT OWNERS FOR COAST DEFENSE BEGINS

Motor Craft and Hydroaeroplanes Start Week of Maneuvers With Warships in Atlantic.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Skippers of the "mosquito fleet," the latest auxiliary adjunct to the United States navy, began receiving instruction today in the potential use of their motor boats and other small craft in time of war.

Along the Atlantic Coast from Boston to the Delaware Capes, good sized flotillas of privately owned power boats and hydroaeroplanes put to sea, escorted by battleships, destroyers and submarines, for a week of maneuvers during which the owners will be taught by naval officers how they can help defend the coast, particularly against submarines.

NAVAL VOLUNTEERS TANNED AND WISER

ABOARD UNITED STATES BATTLESHIP MAINE, attached to squadron cruising with the New York naval volunteers, at anchor off Sandy Hook, Sept. 5.—Led in by the battleship New Jersey, senior ship of her squadron, the Maine anchored off the Hook yesterday afternoon, the New Jersey anchoring off the Ambrose Channel, while the Kentucky, the third ship of the contingent, went to an anchorage in Gravesend Bay. There they will remain today, when the motor boat maneuvers begin.

The other six battleships of the reserve fleet, all of which had been to Tangier Sound for target practice, have dispersed to their respective bases, the Kearsarge and Virginia to Block Island Sound, where they will operate in conjunction with the motor boats of that district; the Louisiana, Rhode Island, Alabama and Illinois assembling off Cold Spring Harbor to maneuver with the motor boats which will be assembled there.

The volunteers return sun-browned and vigorous, so nautical it would make you seek to look at them, possessed of enormous appetites and a thirst that you could not buy. Their outing has been on grapefruit craft and not once have they had an opportunity to mingle with strong waters. And so long had they been cast away from the society of women that when one of these was rowed by the ship at anchor in Hampton Roads, one of the volunteers leaned over the rail and asked: "Say, lady, are you real?"

They get back with their knowledge of navy life vastly expanded. Some whose previous knowledge of the service afloat might have been chemically defined as a "trace," and who at first would have been unable to distinguish a watertight compartment from an engine room telegraph, now talk easily of trajectories, recoil gear, Irish pennants, bore sighting, dip ropes, drift leads, plunger tubes, butt plates, granny knots, Flemish coils and much more which to you and me are but commonplace names.

As for infantry drill and the manual of arms—years later some of these volunteers will be shouldering their crutches and showing how they did it on the Maine. They can do almost anything with a gun, except shoot it.

They are still talking of the many spectacular features of the great search problem into which they had been inducted, and between times they discuss some of the smaller search problems of their own, these involving missing cameras, fountain pens, jewelry and other articles. They got one of the missing a few nights ago and now he is in the brig awaiting trial by general court-martial.

The crews' quarters are fitted with lock boxes, one for each of the complement. When the thief, one of the enlisted men, was caught, it was found that he had been rifling these. He came across an expensive camera, but had stolen the lens only. Before a civil judge he might possibly get six months. The navy prescribes 10 years for theft, no matter if the stolen article is of inconsiderable value. Its court-martial invariably imposes the limit, and from its decision there is no appeal. The tribunal is a supreme court.

The discovery of this raffles led to a statement by one of the officers of the Maine that, despite the efforts of recruiting officers, there are some crooks who have been enlisting for the sole purpose of stealing as much as they can and then deserting. This one's career is likely to be checked for a full 10 years.

SHACKLETON'S MEN NEAR DEATH FOR FOUR MONTHS

Crew on Island Once in Danger of Being Swept Into Sea by Blizzard and Got Down to One Meal a Day.

By SIR ERNEST SHACKLETON.

(Copyright, 1916, by Press Pub. Co.)

PUNTA ARENAS, Chili, Sept. 3, via London, Sept. 5.—Our fourth attempt to rescue our comrades left on Elephant Island has succeeded and all have arrived here safe and well.

The Chilean Government very generously placed at my disposal the steamer Yelcho, commanded by Commandant Pardo. The steamer, manned and equipped at the expense of the Chilean Government, left Punta Arenas on Aug. 4.

(It is believed that this date is a mistake in transmission, as a dispatch from Punta Arenas on Aug. 28 said Shackleton had sailed on that day for Elephant Island.)

On this occasion I set course which would enable us to approach Elephant Island from the northwest, my reason being that I hoped the ice had worked toward the northeast. This hope was realized, and on Aug. 30, after steering in the fog through numerous stranded bergs, I reached Wild's camp at 1 p. m., finding all well. At 2 p. m. we were homeward bound.

To the Chilean Government, to Commandant Pardo and to Lieut. Aguirre I owe my deepest thanks for the means of rescue.

With Wild lies the credit of having kept his party together in strength and safety under the most trying and difficult conditions. Of Cream and Worsley, who have seen this thing through with me, I cannot speak too highly.

"On April 25, the day after the departure of the boat, the island was beset by dense pack ice. The party was confined to a narrow spit of land 250 yards long and 40 yards wide, surrounded by inaccessible cliffs and ice-laden seas.

"We were forced to abandon our ice hole, made untenable by snow. We made a dwelling of our two boats, supported by rocks, and set up as far as practicable from the sea. The weather continued appallingly difficult to work in and the vitality of the whole party was lowered owing to exposure.

"Blackburn, Hudson, Greetstreet and Rickenson became ill and several others were frost bitten.

"In May a heavy blizzard swept much valuable gear into the sea, and we were in grave anxiety, owing to the danger of being swept away by the heavy seas raised by the blizzard blowing with a velocity of 70 miles an hour.

Fortunately, owing to the low temperature an ice foot formed on the seashore and this protection was the means of saving us from total destruction.

"On several occasions the adjacent glacier threw waves, and at one time blocks of ice were hurled to within 10 feet of our dwelling. Observing how the island was beset, I realized the difficulty our leader must experience in effecting our early relief, and as a measure of precaution I drastically economized on food, allowing only one meal daily until we had strengthened our reserve of blubber.

"Our valuable stock of special rations was used for two meals weekly, thus supplying a vital change in our diet, and life was well maintained. We were kept in anxiety as to our meat supply, which was constantly depleted. It was periodically replenished by small penguins, but the seals were unable to land owing to the ice foot.

"Man's Toes Amputated.

"From June onward the weather was better as regards wind, but we were under a constant pall of fog and snow. In the middle of winter Blackburn's toes had to be amputated. Whenever the sea opened our hopes of relief were renewed. The three previous attempts at relief had synchronized with times when the island was beset with ice.

"At the beginning of August we were able to collect seaweed and limpets which formed a valuable change in our diet, but the deep water, heavy seas and ice prevented us from fishing.

"On Aug. 28 the gale drove the pack from the island and on Aug. 30, through the lifting fog, we caught sight of the Yelcho steering through the maze of stranded bergs. An hour later we were homeward bound.

"I wish to place on record the good morale of the entire party, and especially the energy and ability of How, Hussey, Hurley, Macklin, McIlroy, Kerr and Rickenson."

MEN JOIN IN FIGHT AMONG WOMEN IN SALOON GARDEN

Soldier Is Cut on the Head With Bottles and Later Taken to Hospital.

A fight among women in a garden behind the saloon run by George Kleb at 839 South Broadway, last night was taken up by their male escorts and Celestine F. Lambie, a soldier at Jefferson Barracks, was sent to the city hospital with numerous scalp wounds.

Mrs. Amelia Cook, 23 years old, and Mrs. Kate Dauch, 33, both residing at 628 South Broadway, were at a table with Toby Miller of 515 South Broadway and Ernest Scotes of 1110 Chouteau avenue. They quarreled with a woman said to be Miss Bertha Martin, living on Morgan street. She was with Lambie at another table.

When the women began pulling each other's hair, the men interfered. Lambie was hit on the head with bottles several times.

ESTIMATED THAT OVER 80,000 CHILDREN ARE IN THE SCHOOLS

Number Expected to Be Increased to About 100,000 by the Holidays.

The public schools formally opened today with an enrollment estimated at more than 80,000 students. The day in most of the schools was given over to classifying the pupils, and making arrangements for classes.

Supt. Blewett said that a formal report will be made to him by the principals next Monday, showing the exact number of pupils in the schools. After this is received the problem of receiving all students will be given attention. The enrollment generally increases until about the middle of October, and from then until the end of the season remains about the same. It is estimated that over 100,000 pupils will be in the public schools by Christmas.

Sale of High-Class Suits

OUR CUSTOMERS HAVE LEARNED, apparently, to anticipate "coming events" here. We are led to this conclusion by the dozens of women who have asked, during the past week—some in person, others by phone and a number by letter—when we were going to have a sale of really high-class Suits—meaning, let us explain—when we'd have new $50 and $60 Suits to sell around $35.00 and $40.00.

WELL, the event is here. A few days later than in former years but the unsettled trade conditions, strikes, etc., are the cause. But those who have waited will be well rewarded as the values are greater than at any previous time. The very conditions which caused the delay gave us extra price concessions and that saving is for our customers.

$50, $55 and $60
Fur-Trimmed
New Fall Suits

$34.50

We mentioned fur trimmed first, because that is to be the universally-favored trimming for high-class suits. However, there are some with braid and velvet trimming, some have fur and velvet in combination, and there are a number of stately tailored models.

Lustrous Chiffon Broadcloth
Soft Silky Duvetyn

The two queen fabrics for the coming season are in the majority. Other cloths are wool velour, wool poplin and imported serge.

THE COLORS—Burgundy, jungle brown, mulberry, greens, navy and Open and black.

The Fur Used in Trimming—Hudson seal, beaver, fox, skunk, Kolinsky, etc.—would, on many of them cost $15.00 or $20.00.

The Coats vary from 32-inch to the extreme below-the-knee lengths. The upper part fitted and falling from the hips in a wide ripple flare. Skirts are slightly longer than past season. Sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44, and only one or two styles of a kind—but over 100 styles. Choice, $34.50.

Budweiser— and Other Foods

There's food value in beer—as well as beverage enjoyment. A bottle of Budweiser may not be offered as a complete meal—but it has its place in the meal comparable to bread, milk or any other of the dishes or drinks that are part of the well-balanced lunch or dinner.

The alcohol in beer (a small percentage) has its tonic value and its use as an appetizer. The hops have a nerve-soothing value. The malt not only has food value, but is, of all foods, one of the most quickly and easily turned by digestion into nourishment. By its very nature beer is especially thirst-satisfying.

Here are Two Little Charts

that show graphically and in figures comparisons between beer and other beverages and beer and other foods:

Comparative Nutri- ment Content		Comparative Alcohol Content
		Whisky
		Rhine Wine
		Beer
		Milk
Average Composition of		Bread	Milk	Beer	Rhine Wine	Whisky
Carbohydrates - - -		52.0%	4.8%	5.0%	2.25%	none

MAN ON MOTOR CYCLE FATALLY HURT WHEN THE MACHINE SKIDS

Dies in Ambulance on Way to Hospital but His Companion Escapes Serious Injury.

Joseph Dubach, a clerk, 25 years old, of 356 Green avenue, was killed yesterday afternoon in a fall from a motor cycle which skidded from beneath him at King's highway and Old Manchester road. His skull was fractured.

Dubach was on the back seat of a tandem driven by Arthur Musick, 24 years old, of 5645 Kennerly avenue. As the motor cycle ran onto the freshly sprinkled thoroughfare, when Musick was turning from Old Manchester into King's highway, the wheel slid sideways and both men were thrown. Musick escaped with a few bruises but Dubach was unconscious. He died in an ambulance on the way to the city hospital.

HAS CREW ARRESTED AFTER CAR FAILS TO STOP FOR HIM

Collinsville (Ill.) Man Invokes Ordinance Requiring Cars to Halt at Crossings on Signal.

Joseph Kalina of Collinsville, standing on Morrison avenue in that town one day last week, signaled for an interurban car to stop at the crossing. He got mad when it whizzed by, but he also got the car's number.

Yesterday the motorman, William Nichols, and the conductor, Robert Longfellow, were arrested on Kalina's complaint that they did not comply with an ordinance requiring them to stop at crossings on signal. The case will be heard Wednesday.

60 HURT AT WELSH-WHITE FIGHT

Bleacher Seats Collapsed but the Boxing Was Not Delayed.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Sept. 5.—The collapse of a portion of the bleacher seats at the Welsh-White lightweight championship fight yesterday precipitated 200 spectators to the ground and injured at least 100, several seriously. At hospitals, where 40 were taken, it was stated that all will recover. The crash came before the larger part of the crowd had arrived. Policemen and firemen quickly got the injured out of the way and the boxing program was not delayed.

SHIPPING FROM U. S. TO GERMANY SAID TO GO ON SECRETLY

Vessels for Neutral Ports Sweep Wide of Blockade, "Captured" by German Craft.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—That Geheimrath Heinrich F. Albert, fiscal agent for the German Government in the United States, has secretly conducted a transatlantic shipping business from American ports this year, regardless of British control of the seas, sending many cargoes of foodstuffs, oils and other contraband or semi-contraband consigned to neutral European countries, is charged in affidavits considered by the Federal authorities.

The ships here shown as secretly chartered and cargoed by Albert, apparently did not always reach the destinations in their clearance papers. The records show at least four, sweeping wide of the British Isles, apparently to escape search and detention by ships of the entente allies, were captured by German cruisers or submarines and sent to German ports.

Here is a list of ships which according to sworn statements, were cargoed by Dr. Albert and met misfortune:

Prince Valdemar, schooner, bound for Tolsborg, Sweden; captured by German warship, taken to Swinemunde.

Andrew Welch, bark, bound for Halmstad, Sweden; captured by British and sent to prize court after several attempts by German steamers to tow her to German waters.

Dunsyre, bark, bound for Stockholm, captured by Germans and sent to Swinemunde.

Portland, steamer, first captured by British, allowed to proceed to Swedish port, then captured by Germans and taken into Swinemunde.

The New York World yesterday printed affidavits describing a secret mail service between Germany and the United States, sworn to have been established and conducted by K. & E. Neumond, export commission agents, with main offices in Frankfurt, Germany, and branches at No. 25 Broad street and in New Orleans.

Albert's Commercial Activities.

The World today presents charges made in these affidavits of Dr. Albert's commercial activities here through this firm.

According to the affidavits, Karl Neumond had intimate business relations with the German fiscal agent, K. & E. Neumond are sworn to have chartered and cargoed ships for neutral European countries through other firms, frequently through George W. McKee, Inc., of San Francisco, and, by a roundabout process of financing, the name of Dr. Albert and his connection with the transactions became known only to the Neumond firm and certain officials of the Guaranty Trust Co., his bankers here.

After the seizure by Federal officers of papers in the office of Wolf von Igel, former secretary to Capt. Franz von Papen, recalled German military attaché, much correspondence from K. & E. Neumond's main offices and elsewhere abroad was hastily stored in the vaults of the Standard Safe Deposit Co., according to the affidavits.

Of the transatlantic shipping business an affidavit asserts:

"Edward Weisman, with G. W. McNear, Inc., of San Francisco, is the agent for K. & E. Neumond. G. W. McNear, Inc., would ship in their German K. & E. Neumond cargoes consigned to firms in neutral European countries."

Method of Procedure.

"The cargoes sent were paid for by Albert. He paid K. & E. Neumond the money which they paid for them. As soon as K. & E. Neumond received invoices for these cargoes, invoices were made out to Albert and sent right over to him, with the K. & E. Neumond profit added. A copy would be sent to the Guaranty Trust Co. and Neumond would see vice President May of this company or Hollinger, assistant manager of the foreign department, and they would transfer the money from Albert's account to Neumond's account."

Mr. Neumond goes over to Albert's office at 230 Clark street every day right after the close of the Chicago wheat market for orders from Dr. Albert.

"Mr. Neumond would write letters to Weisman to tell him to tell the captains of the ships to make a wide sweep so as to keep away from England and he would get $1000 if the English did not stop him. Such letters were sent to Weisman in connection with the sailing ships Prince Valdemar and Andrew Welch. Similar letters were written about the ships Portland and Dunsyre."

Of the hasty ending of the correspondence after the seizure of the Von Igel papers the affidavits say: "At the time there was such a stir about the Von Igel papers and their capture, the most important of the K. & E. Neumond foreign correspondence with Albert was taken from the letter files and put in a safety deposit box at the Standard Safe Deposit Co. All the letter files of correspondence to Weisman was put in the vault. All the correspondence from Germany and all the letters that had been brought over by special courier were put there."

"This safe deposit vault was taken by Mr. Neumond, and it is not in his name. It was taken under the name of Edwin Neugass. He is a personal friend of Mr. Neumond. He used to be with the Panama Commission Co. of 4 Broad street. I think, Moser (William Moser, a clerk of K. & E. Neumond) and Mr. Neugass himself took the papers down to the vault and locked them up."

An affidavit also recites that the Geheimrath took a big flyer in September wheat and cleaned up about $500,000 net on it.

The substance of these affidavits was told to Karl Neumond by a reporter. He refused to make any denial.

"You have the information, and it is not to my interest to say anything. Do anything you like with it," was his only comment.

When Mr. Poor Pay Paid His Rent, He Wore a Look of Discontent.

Children of St. Louis will today return to their school studies, and must of necessity give up much, if not all, their active interest in the cause of maintaining a check upon infant mortality in the congested districts of the city. Not a few of them probably will find opportunity in after-school hours to follow their benevolent impulses and aid in the task of saving these infants to the home and the community, but if the $5000 required to make the current season a conspicuous triumph in that direction is to be raised the work of rounding out the sum must be taken up by the adults, or the army in reserve, the support of the children's endeavors. Nearly $2000 must be added to attain the mark. Girls and boys have brought in more than three-fifths of the amount needed, and thus set an example that should be so inspiring to the adults that the balance should be quickly forthcoming. The record of St. Louis on infant mortality is foremost among cities of the United States, and as such has attracted a nation-wide interest and admiration. It is a record that every community is ambitious to hold as of more vital value than any that can be established if the city is to prosper and grow as a home center.

Eight children, seven of whom live in the vicinity of Goodfellow and Easton avenues and one in Chicago, gave a most charming and successful entertainment for the Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund. It comprised a lawn festival and was given at the home of Mrs. H. S. Lipscomb, 1456 Goodfellow avenue, yielding $39.42. While the children did not realize the $100 which they had anticipated, the measure of their success was sufficiently large to warrant their own satisfaction and the genuine pleasure of the 300 guests who responded to their endeavors.

The rear yard of the Lipscomb residence was a beautiful natural amphitheater for such an affair. The rear porch was enlarged into an adequate and substantial stage, the background scenery being found in a floral display interspersed with hundreds of colored electric lights. The yard also had been decorated with Japanese lanterns, and around its border were flowers of many varieties. The children in pretty costumes completed a picture of striking beauty. The program follows:

Opening chorus.....All the children
Recitation—Little 64.....Rose Schaefer
Song—Leading Up the Mandy Lee.....Grace Darby
Song—Come Back to Arizona.....Aurelia Lipscomb
Flirtation Dance.....Helen Hirschfeld
Maestro Costello.....Dorothy Gunn
Baby Shoes.....Charlotte Sobbe
Come on to Nashville, Tenn.....Miss Dale Little Orphan Anne.....Helen Hirschfeld
Hone Kong.....Grace Darby
The Little Girl Next Door.....Catherine Schmuks

The children had planned to give this entertainment a second time but were unable to do so because the little visitor from Chicago had to return home. The affair, from beginning to conclusion a notable success, was the direct result of the children's ingenuity and industry, zealously supported by their parents and neighbors. "The Wide Awake" group of young boys identified with the Advent Christian Church, 2507 Emerson avenue, earned $2.51 for the Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund through a lawn festival, at which refreshments and toys were sold. The affair was held at the home of Raymond L. Brown, 5083 Beacon street. Those who aided in making the enterprise successful were John Kubec, Raymond L. Brown, Nernie Baker, Edward Cressap, Ethel Harris and Howard Book. A lemonade stand held at 1111 North Sixteenth street earned $1.85 for the Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund. The children who engaged in this undertaking were Fanny Podlupsky, 1111 North Sixteenth street; Esther Epstein, 1111 North Sixteenth street; and Annie Fishman, 1189 Biddle street.

The sale of candy by Willard Manges, 5708 Kingsbury boulevard, and Herman Shapiro, 5708 Westminster place, extended over several days, earned $3.

Neither Arbeiter, a pretty little miss of 441 Evans avenue, disposed of a handsome sugar spoon for $5.75 for the fund. The disposition of an attractive picture and a delicious cake by Lillian and August Peters of 4233 Maryland avenue and Ruth Niemeyer of 437 Maryland avenue added $3.41 to the fund. These children devoted several days to the work. Mrs. Crump of 4211 Maryland avenue received the picture and Mrs. McCleary of 4233 Maryland avenue, the cake.

Esther Maiman of 2713 Thomas street, Dora Cohen of 2842 Thomas street, and Rose of 2115 1/2 Thomas street, added $4 to the fund, obtaining the money through personal canvass of the neighborhood.

The "Willing Workers Club," composed of Blanche Cohn of 4117 Evans avenue, Anna Sibalski of 4330 Cook avenue, Edna Herman of 4332 Page boulevard and Rose Pearlstone of 1409 Penetion avenue, disposed of a beautiful statue for the benefit of the babies' relief fund, realizing $10.

Featuring New Fall Suits

at $15.75

SIMPLICITY of outline is the rule in the new Fall Suits. The skirts hang straight, are full and longer. The coats are longer and generally follow the natural lines. It is to the collar and cuffs that the stylish dresser looks for individuality. Fur and imitation fur is used for trimming.

Some of the Suits we offer at the above price have the new military collar, that can be worn high about the neck or flat on the shoulders. Many have fur trimmed collars and cuffs with band of fur at base of coats. There are some pretty adaptations of the Norfolk models. All the new shades of green, brown, Burgundy, also black and navy, in such materials as serges, broadcloths, velours, etc. These suits will not remain long at $15.75.

Pretty New Fall Dresses

FASHION has supplied a wide variety of styles in Dresses to select from. Straight lines are, of course much in evidence, but the plaited effects are charming to the eye and are relieved with sashes and belts, many of which are lavishly embroidered with colored silks. The collars and sleeves lend themselves to the whimsical tastes of designers, and many striking effects have been produced. You will find all these new style conceits in the pretty line we are featuring at... $10.00

BROADWAY VIEWS WEIRD MELODRAMA OF MEXICAN WAR

Tully's "The Flame" Mingles Mysticism With Sufferings of Americans.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
 NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The statement in the program of the Lyric Theater that Richard Walton Tully is the sole producer, as well as the author, of "The Flame," the only believable thing connected with the curious production which took place there last night. No other person than he could possibly have discovered the first glimmer of reason or sense in the piece from one end to the other, or would have risked the considerable sum which must have been required to spread it on the stage. Nevertheless, in spite of the incantations, voodoo rites and banshee escapades which aroused constant unintended merriment in the audience, and completely throttled whatever there was in the play that passed for plot or story, it is possible to discern that Mr. Tully had a purpose, hazy as it was, in view. "The Flame" was an effort to show in a lurid melodramatic way some of the atrocities of the Civil War in Mexico, coupled with a protest against the policies observed by this country and England in dealing with their subjects who have been victims of the fighting factions. The play failed utterly because the author, instead of dealing with believable incidents, enveloped his story in a nightmare of superstitious mysticism. There were, as central figures, a young American planter and his wife. Had the action of the play been a little white postponed, there would have been an increase in this family. Another child, introduced by the author for sacrifice in some grotesque voodoo incantations, became hopelessly confused with the expected arrival, and after that the merriment of the audience passed all bounds of reason. Nothing was more remarkable in "The Flame" than a swarthy sprit, cloaked in mystery and not much else, who lived at the bottom of a well and was supposed to direct the fates of the earthly characters—a sort of aboriginal Rautendelein borrowed from Hauptmann's "The Sunken Bell." When last seen, the persecuted hero and heroine were sharing the hospitality of his aqueous subterranean abode. The audience was spared much of Mr. Tully's dialogue because of the incessant din of tomtoms and other instruments of torture which drowned the voices of the actors. The loss, however, was considerable, for, in spite of its elaborate stage pictures, "The Flame" is the most pitiful example of good intentions gone wrong that has been seen in a New York theater in many seasons.

Columbia Has Several Enjoyable Acts on First Bill.

The Columbia Theater's opening vaudeville bill of the season, first seen yesterday, assayed a high percentage of enjoyable acts. Valerie Bergers and a company of five actors played "Little Cherry Blossoms," which has much of the charm of "Madame Butterfly" and "The Darling of the Gods," and has a happy ending beside. Mme. Chilson-Ohrman is a soprano who sings on the level, and with much of the fulfillment in the two-a-day, and whose voice has strength and sweetness. Marie Stoddard's caricatures of musical art, and Milt Collins' mixture of political sense and nonsense, are highly amusing. The playlet, "The Highest Bidder," is poorly constructed, but Allan Dinehart does the best he can with it.

"Madame Sherry" Well Sung by Park Theater Company.

"Madame Sherry," tuneful, but stupid, is the offering of the musical stock company at the Park Theater this week. It is well and pleasingly sung, and Roger Gray, as the eccentric and typical uncle of French-farce-done-into-music style, is seen at his best. Janet McIlwaine, a new member of the Park company, made her bow last night in the role of Louise. Miss McIlwaine is a very pretty girl with a very, very thin little voice. The always reliable Sarah Edwards shared the honors of the evening with Gray, and Florence Mackie, as Yvonne Sherry, the convent girl, looked pretty and sang well. Margaret Heilmuller was excellent in the small part of Pepita.

TEN AUTOMOBILES STOLEN

Watchman Chases Four Men Who Try to Take Another Machine.

Ten automobiles were stolen yesterday afternoon and last night. Two were recovered. The stolen cars, driven away from parking places in various parts of the city, were owned by John D. Layne, Beers Hotel; Edward Leisner, 2501 Semple avenue; Willis Van Camp, 3830 Olive street; Maurice Leakey, 6919 Waterman avenue; Herman Ludwig, 1206 Missouri avenue; Ford Delivery Co., 3227 Cass avenue; J. F. Neaman, 461 Dover street; W. K. Klossman, 5875 Eitel avenue; A. J. Niehoff, 302 1/2 Cass avenue; C. K. Cullom, 4850 Wise avenue.

Four men were trying to steal the automobile of F. H. Ingalls, 5088 Washington boulevard, from in front of his home at 11:30 p. m., when a watchman discovered them. They ran. The watchman pursued and knocked one down, but all escaped. One dropped a Panama hat.

NEGRO KILLED WITH A KNIFE

Quarrelled With Another Negro Who Sat on Sofa With His Wife.
 Henry Minor, a negro, 34 years old, of 115 Talcott avenue, was killed with a knife in the back yard of his home at 5:30 o'clock last night by Matt McClure, another negro, 24 years old, of 428 Col tage avenue. McClure was cut on the neck and face. McClure said that in the Minor home he sat on a sofa with Mrs. Minor and was ordered from the house. The fight with knives followed.

CLIENT OF CRONE SWALLOWS HEAVY DOSE OF ALCOHOL

Retired Pickle Dealer Denies Third Attempt on Life; Lost $2200 on Deed of Trust.

Elias Landsbaum, 54 years old, a retired pickle dealer, yesterday drank eight ounces of grain alcohol in his home, 2835 Sheridan avenue. City hospital physicians say he will recover. His son, Daniel, told reporters his father several times had attempted to end his life since his discovery a year ago that he had lost through the real estate deals of Charles Christian Crone, who is serving a 10-year sentence in the penitentiary for frauds aggregating nearly $50,000.

Landsbaum denied he had attempted to kill himself, but said he had been dependent over the loss of $2200 through Crone. The police say Landsbaum twice before attempted to end his life, once by asphyxiation and once by trying to jump from a window.

Landsbaum said that three years ago his health failed and he retired from a pickle business at 2835 Gamble street, in which he had an interest. Crone, he said, later induced him to buy a first deed of trust for $2200. He did not know the deed was a forgery until after Crone's arrest.

By Midnight Tuesday, August 15th

Up to midnight August 15, a period of 7½ months, we sold and delivered more United States Automobile Tires than we sold during the entire twelve months of 1915—last year.

By August 16, we had passed, by several thousand casings, the sales total for 1915,—itself a year of steady sales increases.

And day by day these phenomenal 1916 increases are heaping up.

Besides—there were still left of this year 115 selling days—four and one-half months.

This almost unbelievable feat of equalling, in 7½ months, the sales record of last year, proves the unequalled merit and actual economy of

The AEOLIAN VOCALION

The phonograph that brings the joy of musicianship to all

WHEN you hear the Aeolian-Vocalion for the first time you will at once recognize the extraordinary perfection of the instrument. The tone—how wonderfully clear, sweet and smooth it is! Voices, you hear, deep voices, high voices, all rich, all vibrant with emotion and life. Instruments sound the finest harmonies of the full orchestra, the brasses, the strings, the woodwinds, all retaining their subtlest musical qualities.

Tone such as this you never have heard from any phonograph before.

But when you play the Vocalion—when you take the Graduola, the Vocalion tone-control device, and with delicate pressure cause the music to shade down, down to the merest whispering softness, or to swell to the greatest power—when you find the music answering instantly your feeling, your desire—then, for the first time, you will perceive the true wonder of the Vocalion.

Then you will realize how far it is above any other instrument of the phonograph type. You will see it as it is—a great, modern musical instrument. A phonograph that will bring you all the joys of musicianship.

Come in and play the Vocalion yourself. This is the fair and convincing test of Vocalion supremacy. Remember that Vocalion prices are reasonable—$35 to $350. Art styles to $2000. ($35 to $75 styles without Graduola.)

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Making Prison Brighter.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
The writer of "Making Prison Brighter" in Sunday's edition, evidently got his information at second-hand.

The O. E. Library League in their instructions to those who wish to correspond with prisoners, make no mention of any "educative letter"; they caution against making any reference to crime or to the reclaiming of the prisoner; they specially request that religion be not mentioned or morals and do not allow any tracts sent which your so-called "pious folks" might want to send. I quote a line from a recent circular: "At this writing we have 318 letters from prisoners who have begged us to find correspondents—some are from men who say they have not a friend in the world." Also quote from a letter from one of the prisoners to the head of the league: "I have heard of the good work done by the league, and would like to become a member."

From the interest you have always taken in befriending the poor; caring for the children and providing for the sufferers, I know you would endorse this work if you fully understood it.

A MEMBER OF THE LEAGUE.

Who'll Write?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I am a lone Texas boy, 23 years old, who would like to correspond with anyone who would like to have the news from the border. There is no one to see here but Mexicans and nothing to read, so you see it grows very monotonous. Thanking you in advance for your favor, I am,
Yours very truly,

Have the People No Rights?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
What right has Congress to grant an increase of freight rates to enable the roads to meet the demands of the trainmen, and force the already suffering public and unorganized labor to come across and pay the increased salary demanded? Also, why should an eight-hour bill be passed solely for their benefit? One would think they were the only ones on the railroad.

Where does unorganized labor come in, as to increase of pay and shorter hours? Baggage men, express messengers, sleeping car conductors, dining car conductors and help are not included, and they are as necessary for the safety and comfort of passengers as those who seek to force the public by the threat of a strike to either pay or paralyze it to get their demands when they are already being paid more than any other class of labor. While the public now is overburdened paying the increased salaries of organized labor, how long can we (the unorganized) stand it when everything goes up. Cut his salary!

ONE OF THE UNFORTUNATES.

Architect for New School Buildings.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Would it not be a good thing for the Board of Education to tell the voters who will make the plans for the new schools? We are shortly to be asked to vote $2,000,000 for new buildings. Our schools are the pride of St. Louis and have an international reputation for beauty as well as utility, and it would be a mistake to let the standard by letting some cheap or untalented architect make these plans.

VOTER.

What Adamson Law May Do.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
The provisions of the Adamson bill, just passed by the House, exempt "electric railways" from the provisions of that exemption will prove the leading feature in making another step in the progress of American railways.

The eight-hour law will not become effective until Jan. 1, and should it be held constitutional by the Supreme Court, would the increase cost in railway operation under that law prove more expensive than for the roads to equip their lines with electric roads?

It has been said all the country town needs to all but equal the city in equal transportation facilities and with the roads operating under electric rather than steam power, rapid suburban transportation would be at its height with a corresponding increase in that class of travel.

As an economical measure and as a method to increase suburban travel, will Congress have forced the railroads to abolish coal?

THE DEMOCRATIC PATH.

We are not worthy to stand here unless we ourselves be in deed and in truth real democrats and servants of mankind, ready to give our very lives for the freedom and justice and spiritual exaltation of the great nation which shelters and nurtures us.—From President Wilson's Lincoln home address.

"But I notice that he usually blunders forward," said Thomas A. Edison, speaking of the charges of blundering brought against President Wilson. He himself admits he has made mistakes. In his speech of acceptance he said:

Mistakes I have no doubt made in this perplexing business, but not in purpose or object.

Mr. Wilson's speech at the Lincoln Home emphasized the notable thing in his speech of acceptance, which was an expression of the man and his purpose. This notable thing was the spirit of democracy and of service to mankind.

The extraordinary program of things accomplished was only the fruit of democratic service, the proof of the value of working democracy.

In not one of the acts of the administration is there a measure of special privilege or of advantage for one interest or for one set of citizens over others. All have been directed against privilege and special interests. The enemies the President has made are strongest proof of this.

We search the President's acceptance speech in vain for a word of apology or a plea for privilege or power. It is always the common man, the masses of men, women and children for whom he pleads.

It is not that his administration has done so much for business, for labor, for social progress, for justice and peace, but it is the purpose which has prompted and moved it—the good of American people as a whole in domestic concerns and the interest of mankind in international dealings.

The purpose for which business legislation was framed was not merely to make business good, but to make it better for all business men; to break the control of business and credit by the strong few and broaden the field of freedom and opportunity for the many.

The acts of social progress were aimed to protect the weak from the strong and secure justice for the many; to equalize burdens.

The income tax, the Federal reserve act, the tariff revision, the child labor law, the farm credit system, were designed to equalize burdens and opportunities.

In his foreign policy the President adhered to his rule of service to mankind. He placed appeal to reason and moral force above physical force. He avoided bluster and advantage of strength and circumstances. His object was to gain the ends of justice, not to reap applause and feed national vanity.

He was patient with Germany, patient with England, patient with Mexico, because he realized their difficulties and how easily the hot temper and hasty blow might serve injustice and injure the cause of humanity. He kept in view mankind rather than narrow personal and national advantage.

In Mexico the struggle of the people against oppression, not the special interest or the single person, was the big thing he saw. He knew that liberty and justice are not won without disaster and felt that if there must be sacrifice, it must be in favor of justice and liberty.

As he himself said, he put men, women and children above property. He placed humanity above national vanity and pride.

This is the record of a Democrat, made in the spirit of democracy which supports the great common interests of mankind.

The President's speech contained a record of four years' achievement in the interest of democracy—a remarkable record—but it was more than a record; it was the keynote of democratic progress for the next generation. It is a vision of democratic possibilities and a call to militant democracy.

If the American people want to go forward on the democratic path the President leads the way.

Thrice a statue of Washington has been struck by Pennsylvania lightning. The bolts could not have been attracted by bad workmanship on the statue, because many inferior statues have never been struck.

ATTENTION, MR. HUGHES.

In an interview concerning the late R. C. Kerns, Walter B. Stevens said:

He gave fully $500,000, during his public life, to the Republican party, I believe. In 1908, when Taft was elected, he gave $100,000 to the presidential campaign fund, and his reward was the Ambassadorship to Austria.

We respectfully call the attention of Mr. Hughes, who has had much to say in criticism of Mr. Wilson's selection of Ambassadors, to this bit of Republican history. President Wilson may have made mistakes in appointments to the diplomatic service, but he has never even been accused of selling an Ambassadorship.

Is Mr. Hughes so blind that he can see only the faults of the other party?

THE ARM-CHAIR CRITICS.

"It will take the Greek army," says a foreign military expert, "about four weeks to mobilize." Greece is the same size as our State of Pennsylvania or Mississippi. The army is supposed to be—and no doubt it is—up to the European standard of efficiency. Its chiefs have all the experience which only active participation in a war can produce. The army for many months, this year, was mobilized. Recently the soldiers were sent to their homes and now they are being called out again.

Four weeks to mobilize! Yet the Washington administration was roundly abused because it could not, almost over night, summon 100,000 men from civilian life and transport them two and three thousand miles away to a desert border. How the arm chair military critics raved!

One of the party organs reduces the report of the Lincoln Cabin demonstration to about three stickfuls. So much for politics.

CHARLES A. STIX.

The late Charles A. Stix was more than a great merchant—he was a citizen of fine public spirit and a practical philanthropist. Mr. Stix made money, but he knew its true value. He looked upon it as a means to an end. He used it to help others who were less able and fortunate than himself. He had a keen sense of compassion for the weak and struggling. He used it also for good public objects. No appeal for any sound public movement was ever made in vain upon Mr. Stix's purse, energy or time. He gave freely and joyously. He treated the opportunity to help as a pleasure as well as a duty.

A citizen like Mr. Stix who was continually growing in breadth of vision and in sense of obligation to serve the community can ill be spared. His death is a public loss.

If something were to occur that would put fire into Fairbanks, the opposition campaign would look up a little.

ZEPPELIN FRIGHTFULNESS FUTURE.

With a fleet of 13 Zeppelins ready, it is astonishing that the German military authorities persisted in choosing the darkest hours of night for their recent raid on England. If these airships, or a number of them, were of the new type, recently described by Baron Montague, a British military and naval authority, why should they not have been sent on their mission in broad daylight, when they might do effective work, even at considerable cost to themselves. According to Lord Montague, the new Zeppelins have a length of 780 feet, a beam of 80 feet, a maximum speed of 80 miles an hour, a cruising radius of 3000 miles at an average speed of 35 miles an hour. They have six or seven engines, with total of 15,000 horsepower, carry five tons of bombs apiece, are armed with machine guns at bow, stern and on top, and have crews of 35 men. At least two of these monsters were known to be completed in the middle of August.

But with 13 of the old-style of Zeppelins, why was not the attack made by daylight? Experience has shown, over and over again, that the midnight raid has no military value. It is simply a form of "frightfulness." A midnight raid, when everyone is supposed to be asleep and hence in the best condition to be affrighted, seems to appeal to the German authorities as more valuable in its effect than a daylight attack, which would become a real battle, with something like equal chances for both sides.

The net results of the midnight raid—a number of noncombatants killed or maimed, a soldier or two slain by accident, and perhaps some damage done to buildings or stores of military use, are not worth the effort. They do not attain the object aimed at. The British are, by such means, simply confirmed in their prejudice against the Germans and in their determination to fight to a finish.

It was not to be expected that a solemn Justice, only just off the bench, would make speeches that would thrill the masses.

FATHER MADERO WAS RIGHT.

Francisco Madero, father of Francisco Madero Jr., late President of Mexico, and of Gustavo, who is also "late," has just died of natural causes, at a fairly ripe age.

Father Madero was not a party to the political aims of his two sons. Father's idea was that nothing could beat a peaceful career in the shade. What with a comfortable chair leaning against the modest adobe house, a simple life, a cigarette, and enough tamales, tortillas, pulque or agua caliente to keep soul and body together, Father looked askance at the boys with their ambitions, while the boys scorned his advice and thought him slow. Nothing could satisfy the boys' sort of climbing to the top of the perilous heights of Mexican politics. About the time that they completed the ascent, a marplot named Huerta butchered both of them. As for Father, who lingered on till yesterday—"Father was right."

U. S. ARMY AEROPLANE PROGRESS.

From Aviation and Aeronautical Engineering.
On Aug. 22, for the first time in the history of the United States regular army, aeroplanes passed in review of their commanding officer with troops of other arms. This review was held "somewhere in Mexico" before Brigadier-General John J. Pershing. Long should this epoch-making date be remembered and great should be the praise of those making the event possible. But equally interesting is the fact that the machines were efficient for combat service.

The 12 aeroplanes with Gen. Pershing's expedition are all equipped with engines of 160-horsepower or over and have machine guns mounted for immediate service. Every aeroplane carries also two .351 Winchester automatic rifles with 200 rounds of ammunition. Bombs of both an incendiary character and also explosive bombs form part of the equipment, and there are automatic cameras with this squadron. After all the criticism that has been leveled at the aviation arm of the service, it is a genuine pleasure to make a record of which every American should be proud.

And the performance of these machines during July gives promise of a brilliant future for the aeronautical squadron. These 12 machines were in the air a total of 160 hours, about 10 hours a day for a month. This trying was accomplished under the most unfavorable conditions and proves that the many difficulties which were encountered at the outset of the campaign have been overcome.

The problem of suitable propellers has been partially solved by the erection of a propeller factory on the border. Propellers are never used for two reconnaissance expeditions in succession. As soon as a machine returns to its base at Columbus, N. M., the propeller is removed and placed in a humidor to preserve the viscosity of the glue which holds together the laminations and another propeller is taken out and attached to the machine when the time comes for its next flight. Experiments with two, three, four and five bladed propellers are being conducted.

This revolution in the affairs of the aero squadron under Gen. Pershing is chiefly due to the untiring work of Lieutenant-Colonel George O. Squier, U. S. A., head of the aviation section of the signal corps. He brought to his present assignment a knowledge of conditions abroad and a determination to put aviation in the army on a sound basis. He has done it magnificently.

UNDERSTANDING.

WHEN we are very young, and see the bird
That craved the light fall hurt among the stones,
And the young moth that late to life has stirred Die in the storm that through the garden moans;
As though in contemplation of some blunder—
We wonder.

When we are older, and have had some friend
Who, we are told, has suffered and has lost;
When we have seen a little of the trend
Of life, and watched the failures being tossed
Into the past, the achile Fate croons her ditty:
Although we yet see little and know less—
We guess.

And later, when the hours are grown to years
And our own wings have failed us near the light;
And when our cheeks have learned the touch of tears,
And our tired hearts find comfort in the night;
Taught by the Life that leads us sure and slow—
We know.

The folly of having anything to do with either of our baseball teams was very forcibly illustrated in St. Louis last night. The average man was so mad he could not even be polite, and there were probably more silent meals than this community has ever known. How wives escaped being killed, we can't make out. The open season on wives must have closed on the 1st.

GOOD BYE, LITTLE GIRL, GOOD BYE!

GOOD BYE, little girl, good bye!
The light of the day is done—
Dark are the clouds that crowd the sky,
Like a train of ghosts that are swift to fly
From the scourge of a sin that will not die—
Good bye, little girl, good bye!

Good bye, little girl, good bye!
The end of our way lies here—
My heart I gave, as a bridge of love,
To the souls that climb to hills above—
But you turn to the world, like a weary dove—
Good bye, little girl, good bye!

Good bye, little girl, good bye!
The end of our way lies here—
Your heart will shrink from the fends that lie
In the ways of the world, for the passers by,
And their toll is this—that the soul must die—
Good bye, little girl, good bye!

BRIDGEPORT, ILL.

The allies have controlled all the war news from Europe for so long that stereotyped expressions are becoming tiresome. If the Germans didn't always have to be hurled back while the allies are merely retiring, it would be a relief.

MY INSPIRATION.

RANK and file, many an ale, grey old trees,
High in the breeze murmuring leaves,
Flickers of sunshine laughing through,
Angel spirits pure and true,
Violet depths where beauty sleeps,
Music of splashing water-fall,
Ocean-rolls and wild birds call—
All in the eyes of my lady!

IN SIGNS.

HER SMILE.

GOD, why cannot I forget
That smile,
In which her eyes
No less than her slow-parting, tender lip
Were so entirely lovable?

It always came
When for a time she'd wholly quiet been,
When she had been day-dreaming,
Or so absorbed
In contemplation of a book, a play
Or some bright scene in nature That
She quite forgot my presence—

O then,
Recalling presently that I was there,
She'd quickly turn and look into my eyes—
And smile.

Innocence and wisdom—
Tenderness and love of joy,
United in that child-like smile
And brought to me a message—
It seemed she'd said:
"O come—I love you, comrade—come and share Whatever joy my soul does find in life."

And now—
O God, why cannot I forget?

The extreme difficulty which the newspapers are having in saying anything nice about the late Col.
Kerns' career ought to be warning enough for the rest of us.

Col. Roosevelt was an interested spectator at the national tennis tournament yesterday. We thought he would take up something else.

ADVICE TO HUGHES.

"I BIN readin' some o' your speeches, Brother Hughes," says the McKent.
"An' I see where you beseeches
Us to make you President.

"But it seems that you are standin'
On the wrong foot, so to speak,
When you go about a crownin'
'Bout our great financial leak.

"Anyone kin swing a hammer,
Anyone kin point with scorn,
But you'd better sell your mallet
And go buy yourself a horn."

The Coquette

By George Munson.

WHEN Charles Dawson left home with his father's fervent wish that he might never return, he had expected to see him again. So when Tom Dawson died and left him his entire property, the flourishing farm and the lots on Midvale avenue, aggregating a sum of $40,000, everybody knew that the ne'er-do-well would turn up again soon.

He did. Very few people remembered that Esther Rogers and Charles had been engaged, but the few who remembered speculated. Esther was now a middle-aged woman, which is not the same as middle-aged. She was perhaps 35. Charles must be 45 if he was a day.

Would the engagement be renewed? That engagement that Esther had broken at her mother's insistence?

They met and resumed their friendship. People wondered, but little was to be learned. They seemed just good friends. Meanwhile Charles proved that his journey West had sobered him. He ran the farm systematically and made good money out of it.

Then Laura Dean came into his existence. Laura had been a little thing in short dresses when Charles went away. Now she was a young lady of 25, the prettiest in the village, and the gayest.

Esther, watching, saw that after Charles had met Laura all the welcome in his eyes for her seemed to fade away.

The Old Love Came Back Again

LIKE all good women, Esther craved a husband and a good home. She had dreamed of Charles ever since his return. It would be untrue to say that she had not often forgotten him during the years of his absence. But with his return the memory of the old love came back to her and, though she dared not show it, she fancied Charles was not indifferent to her.

She fancied so that night when he spent his heart to her. He told her what a wreck he had made of his life. "I was a fool, Esther," he said unapologetically. "I squandered my youth. What is left to me now?"

As he said this he looked up, and suddenly Esther knew that her eyes had answered him. She blushed furiously. Now that she knew he cared for her she was afraid. And then—well, then an interruption came.

For a girlish voice rang out from the street. "Miss Rogers! Oh, Miss Rogers, where are you?"

It was Laura, unconventional as always. Of course she was invited in and presented to Charles, and as soon as the man had set eyes on her he began to dream again. He dreamed of a youth that was yet recoverable. He looked at Laura as if she embodied all that Esther had been.

"And no full-day classes at ours—Boo Hoo!"

After that the man and the girl often met, and Esther shrank more and more into her shell. It was plain that Charles cared for her no longer. As for Charles himself, his mind was in a whirl, and he hardly knew what he wanted; he was drawn like a magnet by Laura's bright eyes and obvious interest in him.

Charles Overhears.

THEN, one evening, when he had entered the garden to call on Laura, he was surprised to hear her in the little summer house. It was pitch dark, and before he could make himself known the words he heard held him spellbound. Laura was talking to Esther.

"Of course I don't love Charles Dawson," she was saying indignantly. "Can't I have a little amusement with the only eligible man left in town?"

"Do you consider it amusement to ruin a man's happiness and break his heart?" asked Esther.

"Oh, men's hearts are not so easily broken," Laura answered. "He thinks he is irresistible, that middle-aged man of over 40, and I am going to teach him a lesson which he sorely needs."

"I have been leading him on and tonight I expect he will call, and a little encouragement will soon bring him to the proposing point. And then I shall rise and say, 'Thank you sir, for the honor you propose to do me, but I am not taking any.'"

"Laura!" exclaimed Miss Rogers in horror. Then, with rising indignation, "I think it is dreadful of you to propose to break a good man's heart in that way, and I don't want to know any more about it."

"I believe you're after him yourself, Esther," said Laura, mockingly. But Esther walked past Charles in the darkness, so near that she almost brushed him, and he heard her sobbing as she went by.

Charles waited a few moments, but in those moments he experienced one of those revolutions of feeling that turn love into bitter hatred. And then, having regained his self-control, he went forward into the garden. "Miss Dean!"

"Why, is that you, Mr. Dawson?" called Laura's voice out of the darkness. "I was hoping you would call tonight. Do come and sit down beside me, won't you, and I'll tell you about the West."

Charles Dawson sat down on the seat. He could just see Laura's white dress. He cleared his throat. "The fact is, I came to speak quite seriously to you, Miss Dean," he said. "It is a subject I have thought over for a long time. Now there is the one question in my mind, and I must ask it."

"What is it?" asked Laura softly.

"I am in love," said Charles, taking her hand in his. "And I haven't the courage to ask her."

"Faint heart never won fair lady," said Laura, letting her hand rest in his. "Who is she? But let me see if I can guess. I should say—well, Esther Rogers."

"You've hit it first time," answered Charles.

Laura's hand leaped out of his. "What?" she stammered.

Laura Is Furious.

"It is Esther Rogers, and I have loved her all my life," said Charles. "Do you think I am worthy of her? Do you think there is any chance for me?"

"Oh, yes," said Laura, hysterically. "I suppose so. You are of an age, you see," she added venomously.

"Then I shall ask her," said Charles, rising. "Of course, a man with my income has to be careful whom he asks. So many women have mercenary inclinations in this age. There are lots of the young girls about here who would jump at me—but I'm not taking any."

"How dare you, Mr. Dawson!" began Laura, rising, too. "Do you dare to insult me?"

"Oh, no, indeed; you misunderstood me," answered Charles. "I—but perhaps I made an unfortunate statement. Good evening."

And, raising his hat, he left Laura in collapse upon the bench and made his way leisurely to Esther's house. His heart was singing, for he knew now that youth turns to youth and middle-age to middle-age; and he knew, too, that his love for Esther, deep in his heart, had been the guiding star of his life.

Esther, standing in the living room, looked at him piteously when he came in. She could hardly restrain the tears that came into her eyes. She had resolved to go away, never to see him again. . . . What was he saying?

She looked incredulously at him; she felt his arms about her and her own heart beating; and then the long, long waiting was merged into the happy now.

Don't Ever Let Anyone Tell You This as a New One
 WHAT'S the difference between a man without money and a pillow?
 "I give it up."
 "One is hard up and the other soft down."

The Babies.

LINCOLN SPRINGFIELD, London editor, was talking to an American correspondent.

"I know a regiment," he said, "where the subalterns are so young that not one of them is able to raise the mustache required by etiquette."

"A handful of privates from this regiment swaggered back to quarters late one night singing the popular ditty, 'Another little drink won't do us any harm.'"

"As they passed the officers' billets, the guard on duty growled at them: 'Shut up, you noisy fools, or you'll wake the war babies!'"

Harsh Criticism.

KITCHENER was harshly criticised the last two years of his life, but he could not complain, for he was always a very harsh critic himself.

"Thus, when Kitchener went to South Africa to take charge of the Boer War, one of the generals whom he was supplanting said to him: 'Well, how do you propose to reorganise the transport?'"

"Reorganise it?" said Kitchener. "I'll organise it."

No Useless Formalities

TRAVELING with Sir Arthur Markham on one occasion, the conversation, says a writer, turned on the limits of self-defense.

"I shot a man once," said Sir Arthur. "And what happened?" I inquired; "was there trouble?"

"No," came the reply, "there might have been elsewhere, but it was in a wild part of Russia. The man was trying to enter my bedroom window at night, and I shot him. He fell outside. A small patrol of Cossacks was passing within reach of the sound of the revolver. They came along, secured the wounded man, asked a few questions, and disposed of the whole business by hanging my burglar on the nearest tree. I hear no more about the matter."

This method of dealing with a very plain business seemed to be thoroughly in accord with Sir Arthur's wish to have things done without any bothering red-tape or formalities.—Westminster Gazette.

A GREAT many folks nowadays firmly believe you can't pursue happiness without an automobile.

As Good as They Gave.

A SMALL boy astride of a donkey was taking some supplies to an army camp in Texas not long ago, and got there just as a detachment of soldiers preceded by a band was marching past.

The lad dismounted and held the bridle of the donkey tightly in his hand.

"Why are you holding on to your brother so hard," asked a group of soldiers who were standing near and wanted to tease the country boy. "I'm afraid he might enlist," said the lad, without batting an eyelash.

The Only One, Almost.

JUSTICE HUGHES, at a Baptist supper in Washington, once rebuked a backbiter neatly.

The man had been talking about the hated money of this millionaire and that millionaire. All millionaires, according to him, were thieves and hypocrites. Hughes nodded and said quietly: "That's right, my friend. Sneer at success. It is failure's one privilege."

A Distinction.

DID you ever commit robbery on a luncheon at night, Sam?"

"Oh, no, sah."

"Never in your whole life, Sam?"

"No, sah; never, sah."

"Look here, Sam, do you mean to say you never went to a man's henhouse at night and took a chicken?"

"Oh, yes, I done that, boss. But I didn't take every chicken in de place that'd been robbery."

Tough on Fido.

Mother: What is Fido howling about, Willie?

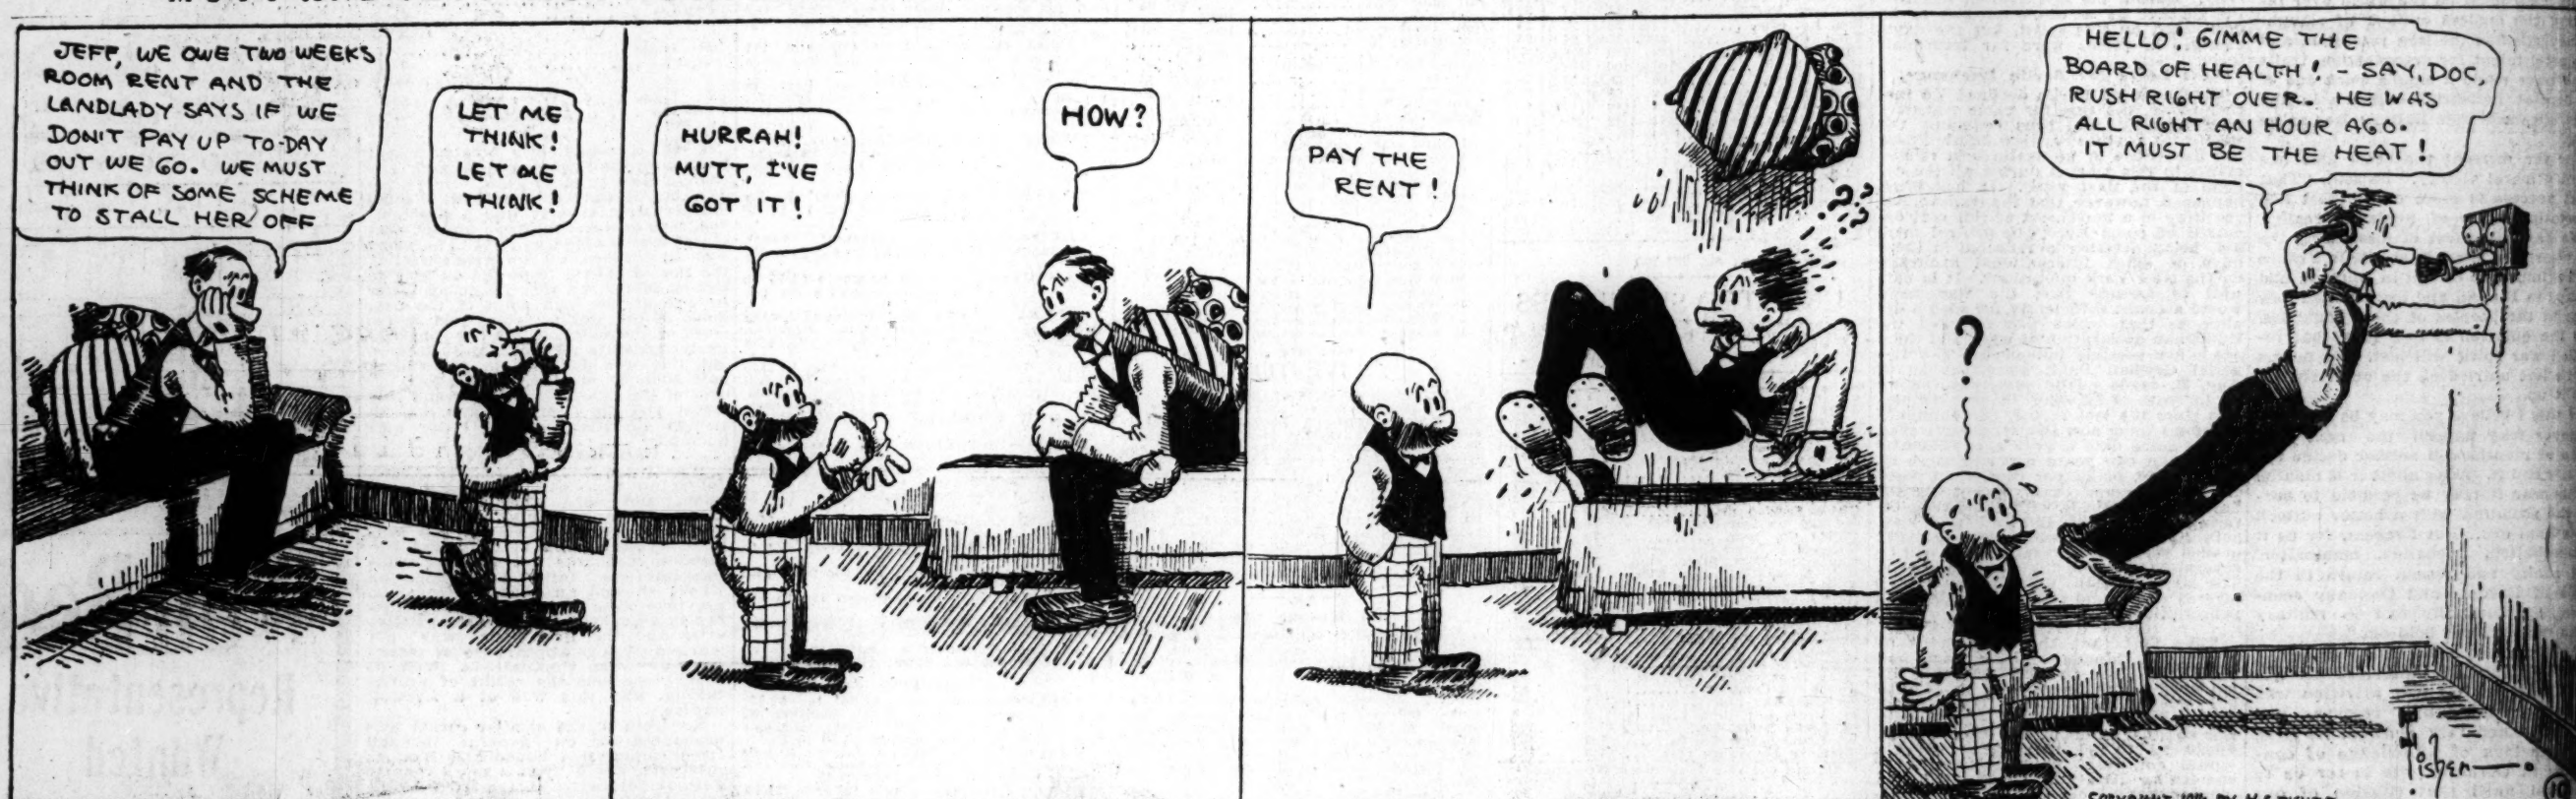

Willie: I don't know. All I did to him was to give him his bath and hang him up to dry.

Silas McGuggin Makes Plans That Go Awry.

By BIDE DUDLEY.

SILAS McGuggin, in Peewee's store: "My wife and my daughter put up a big row, 'cause I was in shirt-tails at dinner today. Hereafter, by golly, I'll have my own way. I put on my coat just to keep them two still. From now on I'll bet you they'll bow to my will. They said my rough manners at home wasn't right. I'll show 'em whose runnin' that household tonight." "That's right," replied Grandpa McGee with a grin. "To let women rule you is shorely a sin."

"Don't worry—he'll show 'em," Jed Peewee said. "You bet I'll teach 'em." said Silas to Jed. Just then through the door came a woman, real mad. "Twas Mrs. McGuggin in fighting mien clad. With hands on her hips and while wearing a frown, she gave ev'rybody a good dressing down. 'Ah, ha! Here you are!' she began in Si's face. 'A fine crowd of loafers hangs out at this place. Not one of you has enough sense to pound sand. State's prison's the place for old fools of your brand.' Then, pointing at Si, she said: 'Home, sir, at once, and cut me some wood. You poor, weak-minded dunce!' She grabbed Si's left arm. From the place he was led. 'Si's plans for his household look phony,' said Jed.
